At the Jaycee Awards Presentation . . .

and spoke about his love for Bolingbrook.

terials Frank had collected over the years was like walking through a history of Bolingbrook for Maryanne, who mused at how their lives had overlapped.

"There were so many firsts — the tree-lighting ceremony, a key from the hospitality suite at the Conrad Hilton when Frank was the assistant village manager, the play we were all in together. There were a lot of deep feelings in those nine years," she added.

Dan Barnes (better known to Frank's readers as "Barneserino") also had some deep ties to his golfing buddy.

"Frank was a special friend to me. If there ever was a time when I was feeling low, or just needed someone to talk to, Frank was there. Frank said the same of me.

"Oh, how we could laugh! Many times the girls at the SUN wondered what the hell was going on when we were on one of our terrors," Dan recalled.

"Frank loved to golf. Yesterday I played at Carriage Greens, where Frank and I golfed often. I relived in my mind the fun we had there. A few of his columns recounted our exploits on the links.

"I will never forget the night of the Jaycees Distinguished Service Awards. Even though Frank was hurting, he had the whole room laughing and spellbound with his routine.

"No comedian was ever better. What an inspiration Frank was, even though he knew he was near the end.

"I miss Frank Gist. I love Frank Gist. He was so very good to me."

Bob and Betty Bailey had known Frank since the early days of the Village.

"Frank was on the first Bolingbrook Housing Assn. He was an original member and treasurer. I remember that he wasn't a real good treasurer because he would write things on tiny little scraps of paper, like the back of grocery receipts. He always wrote in green ink too and it was hard to read," Betty recalled.

"I think Frank was a romantic, a real romantic. I don't know too many others who are real romantics. Romantics feel deeply about things. They fall in love easily. They feel rejection strongly. There aren't many of those left. The world is a harsh place and Frank was one of those tender souls. He might have been a little out of place for a world that was harsh around him. In a phrase, he reminded me of a modern-day Don Quixote — tilting windmills.

"In the end, he had the perfect job. His columns were sensitive and warm. People enjoyed them so much. I also loved to listen to Frank talk about his sons. Those were touching moments," said Betty.

Her husband, Bob, took a different view toward Frank. "Frank had a particular talent. He was into people, emotions and poetry. He may be Bolingbrook's first folk hero. He could have made a lot of money if he had gone back downtown (to work) — but Frank was into this community and being around the people he knew.

"We all had an obligation to take care of Frank because there were not too many like him around. He was like a two-week vacation in a year of work," Bob concluded.

Shirley Rhodes, administrative aide for the Romeoville Chamber of Commerce, talked about one of her first meetings with Frank.

"I remember one story. It was my first year in this office. Our chamber golf outing only had about 51 golfers. Frank was one of them. He took it upon himself to make Bob Akin his partner. Bob had never golfed before. They were quite a twosome.

"After it was over, I thought I would write thank-you notes to everyone who came. Frank got one and went around bragging that he got the nicest thank-you note for joining the golf outing. He thought he had gotten the only thank-you note. Bob Akin took the starch right out of his sails when he said that he had gotten a thank-you note too. We made fun of that for years.

"Frank was just a nice guy. He was a real sweetheart. He had a good sense of humor, was a good reporter, was dedicated to his job and deeply devoted to his boys. He brought his son along to last year's golf outing.

"A lot of people didn't take the time to get to know Frank. People would disagree with something he wrote and would not like him without getting to know him. You can't do that to any reporter. Frank was open to talking to anyone. Even if you disagreed with Frank, you could still talk to him."

Some people remember Frank as he was so often seen during his earlier years in Bolingbrook — with a camera in hand, snapping shots at any given community event.

"I've known Frank since 1972. At that time, we had a small town, a small paper and a small police department. If something was happening, Frank would be there," recalled Deputy Police Chief Richard Kuntz.

As Bolingbrook's first juvenile officer as well as a sports enthusiast, Richard said that Frank was always taking pictures of him — in either a police uniform or a softball uniform.

"Whenever we saw each other, we traded ribs. But we never exchanged unpleasant words," said Richard. "And he was always a friend of the police department."

Frank was a friend to the Bolingbrook High School Athletic Department as well, according to Bob Mitchell, the basketball coach at BHS.

"Frank and I went through the thick and thin times. He was always so positive when he wrote about the team. I think he had a lot to do with our success," Bob commented.

Ensnared behind his desk at the SUN office early last summer, Frank scanned the latest edition of his paper, looking for errors to bring to the attention of his reporters at the next weekly staff meeting.

Remembering Frank: Co-workers, friends share their memories

by Jane Lelugas

We do not realize how our lives intertwine.

We go from day to day, spending our time at work, or at school, or at home with our children, assuming that tomorrow will bring more of the same.

We meet dozens of people during the course of a day, a week, a month, a year. We spend our time as if life were a constant.

And then something happens to make us stop, to make us take a closer look at ourselves and those people who touch our lives.

Last week, with the loss of our good friend Frank Gist, many of us stopped to take that closer look.

Each of us who knew Frank will remember him in a special way.

To Ed and Maryanne Kozlik, Frank was part of the family, after having lived with them and their children for three years.

"We shared a lot of things. I remember the day we thought my 5-year-old son was lost. We had been looking for him for more than two hours when we began to panic. We were all crying — even Frank — until Eric woke up and came out of his room — where he had fallen asleep under his bed," said Maryanne.

BHS alumna killed on way to homecoming

Michelle Ganster

One Bolingbrook High School alumna, 19-year-old Michelle Ganster, was killed and another seriously injured in a car accident on their way to last Saturday afternoon's BHS homecoming football game.

The accident happened just east of downtown Lemont, on Main Street at Parker Road.

Ganster, who since graduating from high school in 1992, was living with an aunt and uncle in Chicago. On her way to Bolingbrook for the game, she picked up her friend, and another 1992 BHS grad, Andrea DeCarlo, whose family recently moved to rural Lemont.

The two girls were driving west on Main Street about 11:30 a.m. in Ganster's 1983 Chrysler LaBaron convertible. Coming toward them was a Mack dump truck. The truck suddenly turned left in front of the girls' car to go into the K-5 Construction Co. yard.

Despite attempts to brake, the girls' car slammed broadside into the truck. Ganster was rushed to Palos Community Hospital where she was pronounced dead shortly after 1 p.m.

DeCarlo, who suffered head and face injuries, was taken to Christ Hospital in Oak Lawn. She underwent plastic surgery, but was released by Monday.

The truck was owned by Dillon Trucking Co. of Bedford Park, but leased to K-5 Construction of Lemont. The truck driver, who was not injured, is a 48-year-old man from Lyons. Charges are pending.

Visitation and the funeral service were Monday and Tuesday of this week at Malec Funeral Home in Chicago, with interment at Irving Park Cemetery.

Michelle Ganster

The two girls had planned to meet several of their friends at the football game, many of whom were home from college for the weekend and homecoming.

Ganster, who also attended Addams Middle School in Bolingbrook, was voted the Best Dressed girl her senior year.

An auto accident which occurred Tuesday, Oct. 22, around 6:04 a.m., in unincorporated Downers Grove, resulted in the death of 23-year-old Nicholas M. Galanos, Jr., of Bolingbrook and the injury of Roger L. Martin, 22, of 149 Kingston rd., Bolingbrook.

The two men were driving a 1972 Oldsmobile Cutlass north on Cass avenue, near 91st street, when the accident happened, a Du Page Coroner's report and Du Page Sheriff's office said.

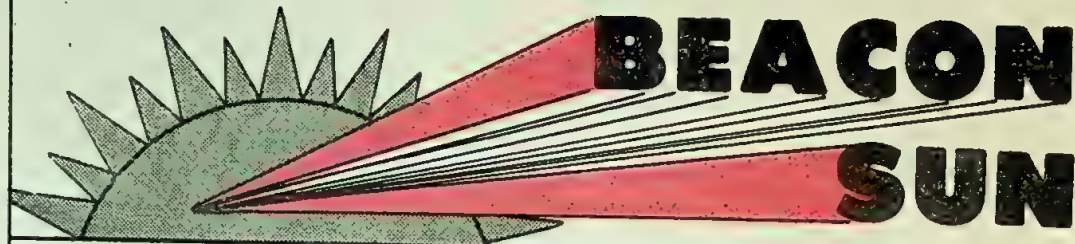

According to the police report, rather than turning right with the curve of the road, the vehicle drove into on-coming traffic, then struck a culvert, which caused it to flip and end up resting on the passenger's side.

Both men were thrown from the automobile. Police estimated, from skid marks left on the pavement, that the car had traveled about 200 feet, then hit the drainage ditch.

The police report stated that Martin only remembered going off the road and nothing more.

Martin was transported by the Argonne Fire Department to Hinsdale Hospital, where he was admitted to the Intensive Care Unit (ICU), suffering multiple injuries. By Monday, Martin had been transferred out of ICU and was reported in fair condition.

The Tri-state Fire Department took Galano to Hinsdale Hospital, where he was pronounced dead upon arrival, at 7:12 a.m.

Investigators think youth knew killer

Bolingbrook Police continued to guard the area in which the body of 10-year-old Donald Green was found Sunday afternoon. Police were stationed at the scene to prevent curiosity seekers from accidentally destroying any possible evidence.

A view along Lily Cache creek, just west of the Greenleaf apartment complex, shows the area in which Donald Green's body was found Sunday afternoon. Police markers indicate the youth's body was found in the creek just beyond the last tree along the creek bank.

Bolingbrook detectives investigating last weekend's stabbing death of 10-year-old Donald Green believe that the victim knew his assailant. Police Chief William Charnisky made that statement at last night's meeting of the Village Board, at which Charnisky appeared at the request of Village Board President Edward Rosenthal.

Chief Charnisky also said that there does not seem to be any connection with the murder of a 10-year-old Naperville girl on the same weekend.

Donald Green's body was discovered Sunday at approximately 2:30 p.m. in Lily Cache creek, between Pinecrest road and Kildeer drive. The boy, who lived at 294 Seabury, was reported missing by his mother, Julia Knowles, at 9 p.m. Saturday evening. His parents' last contact with the boy was at 4:30 p.m. on Saturday, according to Bolingbrook Police.

The body was reportedly discovered in the shallow waters of the creek by two boys who were playing in the area. They notified their parents, who called police.

Donald Green

The boy was pronounced dead at the scene by Will County Deputy Coroner Jim Blackburn, and was brought to the Blackburn funeral home for an autopsy ordered by Will County Coroner Robert Tezak, who determined through the autopsy that the cause of death was a stab wound.

The youth, who was a fifth-grade student at Brook View elementary school, was reportedly seen outside the Bittersweets game room in the Briar Square shopping center at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday.

The same source who reported seeing the boy, also stated the boy had been talking to an older youth, whose age appeared to be about 18 or 19.

The boy reportedly was wearing a dark jacket, blue jeans, and a purple stocking cap when last seen.

The area in which the body of Donald Green was found separates the single-family homes on Whitby court in the Ivanhoe subdivision from the Greenleaf senior citizens apartment complex.

Although the death is believed to be an isolated incident, police patrols have been increased during the times children are traveling to and from schools. Police recommended that children walking to school travel in pairs.

Last night, Chief Charnisky told the Village Board that the Bolingbrook Police Department will be instituting a fingerprint program for children primarily between the ages of five and 13 years old, for a $3 fee. Parents will keep the cards and be responsible for keeping them in a safe place.

Boy stabbed to death; motive, suspect sought

Rumors and fear grew at a rapid pace in Bolingbrook Sunday and Monday as the news that a young boy had been murdered spread through town.

The body of Donald Green, age 10, was found in Lily Cache Creek Sunday by children playing in the area between Pinecrest Road and Kildeer Drive. The boy was discovered at 2:30 p.m.

An autopsy report from the Will County coroner's office Monday showed that the cause of death was a stab wound. No weapon has been found yet. No motive has been determined.

Police said Tuesday that they believe the homicide was an isolated incident and that Donald may possibly have known his murderer.

"We have some suspects, but there are still a lot of details to nail down. Investigators are working around the clock," says police chief Bill Charnisky.

As yet, the exact time of death is not known, but it had to be between 4:30 p.m. Saturday and 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Charnisky says. Donald was last heard from at 4:30 Saturday when he called to see what time to be home for dinner. He talked to his sister, police say. They do not know where he was when he made the call.

A search began when Donald's mother, Julia Knowles, reported him missing at 9 p.m. Saturday.

The key to the case is reconstructing Donald's day, especially trying to find someone who saw him after 4:30 p.m. Saturday, deputy chief Ron Chruszczyk says.

"We have traced his activities through mid-afternoon Saturday. We've talked to a lot of people who saw him before 4:30, but he was alone," he says.

Donald, whose nickname was "Tuffy," lived with his mother and step-father, Arthur Knowles, at 294 Seabury Road. He may have been seen last about 4 p.m. at the home of his friend Anthony Villacci of 290 Seabury Road.

HE WAS ALSO reportedly spotted walking north on Pinecrest Road, at the White Hen Pantry on Pinecrest, and had told friends he was thinking of heading for the Wizard Game Room. Donald was an avid video game player and frequenter of the local game rooms.

"He was very mobile. It was his typical Saturday, ranging from Seabury to Boughton and over to Ill. Rt. 53," says the police chief.

Rumors circulating around town had the boy being "snatched" from Briar Square. "Bittersweets was just one of the places he was seen Saturday," Chruszczyk says. "We are trying to trace his steps."

Police took on the massive job of talking to all Donald's friends and classmates at Brook View School.

The area where Donald's body was discovered was closed off Sunday and Monday while teams of officers searched for evidence. Although the body was found nude, in the water, with his clothes nearby, police must wait for laboratory test results to know whether or not the boy was sexually molested, Charnisky says.

Police search the creekside where Donald Green's body was found Sunday afternoon, nearly 24 hours after he was missing. No weapon has yet been found.

While it is too early to be certain, Charnisky says, evidence leads investigators to believe that Donald may have been killed at the creek and not just dumped there later. Door-by-door questioning of neighbors around the scene began Wednesday, as police try to find someone who might have seen anything of Donald or his assailant in the relatively open area around the creek.

Realizing the concerns that area parents might naturally have, extra officers have been put on the streets during the hours children will be going to and from school and in the evening, Chruszczyk says. "This is a precaution. We still don't know what the motive was," he says.

FEARS OF AREA parents were compounded by the fact that a 10-year-old Naperville girl, Janine Nicario, was abducted from her home Friday. Her partially clad body was found Sunday night in unincorporated Naperville Township within hours of the discovery of Donald's body. Bolingbrook police, DuPage County officers and FBI agents have been sharing investigative information. They believe the deaths are not connected, says Charnisky, because of striking differences in the two cases.

An autopsy revealed that Jeanine died from a blow to the head. DuPage County authorities have indicated that the girl, who was home from school sick Friday, might have startled a burglar or may have been abducted because she recognized a burglar.

Police are asking anyone who might have seen Donald on Saturday (he was wearing jeans and a Navy blue Chicago Bears jacket) to please call investigators at (312) 759-0470.

'Tuffy' loved football; friends, family stunned

"Tuffy."

That was his nickname given to Donald Green by his parents after he broke a baby rattle at two weeks of age.

His mother, Julia Knowles, reported that he spent the remaining 10 years of his life trying to live up to that nickname by teasing his brothers and sisters and playing football.

He loved football.

He played on the defensive squad of the Saturday PeeWees, a team in the Bolingbrook Trojan Football organization. He got his name in the papers several times last fall for particularly good defense in tackle games played against out-of-town teams.

When he wasn't wearing the purple-and-white Trojan jersey on the football fields on Saturdays, he might be outside his house on Seabury Road playing "Johnnie Tackle" with some of the other kids in the neighborhood.

He had at least three "best" friends, by all accounts. They were his teammates in the PeeWee huddle and his "Johnnie Tackle" partners on the street. They attended Brook View School together. They were all Tuffy's neighbors.

Reggie Johns is several years older than Tuffy, but they were friends none the less. Markeba Johns and Tuffy played on the same Trojan team. The brothers lived across the street and a couple of doors down from Tuffy. Tony Villacci also played on that team. He lives next door to Tuffy's house, and Tony's dad, Vic Villacci, was the coach of the Saturday PeeWee team.

"They're all hurt," says James Johns. "It's hard trying to get them to understand what happened. They were always together."

"THEY WERE GOOD friends, spent lots of nights together at our house or his house or Tony's house," Johns says of the close relationship among Tuffy's friends and neighbors.

"He was a nice kid, never gave anyone any problems and it's hard for us to believe that he's gone."

"They were together a lot," Johns repeated, adding that the kids spent their time together playing Atari games on home televisions.

"Reggie had just talked to him Saturday. Tuffy called and asked Reg to go with him to the Wizard (game room). I was at work, so Reggie called me to ask if he could go, but he's not allowed to leave the house when I'm gone. When I came home from work Saturday, Reg told me that Tuffy was missing."

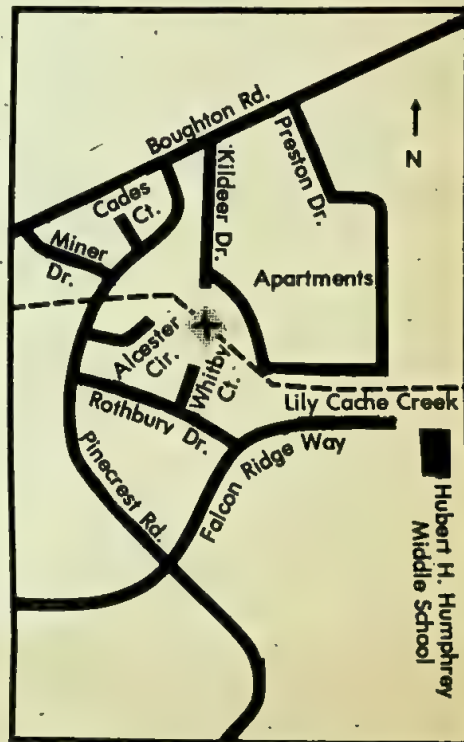

"Vic, my kids and I and the other neighbors spent Saturday night and Sunday looking for him," Johns said. "His mother was pretty worried when we talked to her before they found Tuffy. And the later it got Sunday, the more everyone got worried. Tuffy had never been away that long before. We knew him since he was 6-years-old."

"WE WENT TO Bittersweets, the Wizard, Game World on Schmidt Road, all over. Every place we could think of, we looked for Tuffy. Sgt. (Chuck) Dennis came to our house to ask us questions. He was Reggie's football coach last year," Johns said.

No matter who did the talking, the name "Tuffy" was always paired with the word "football."

The last time anyone remembered seeing Tuffy, he was wearing his navy blue and orange official NFL Chicago Bears football jacket.

And now his team is minus one player.

The body of 10-year-old Donald Green was discovered Sunday in Lily Cache Creek on the east side of Bolingbrook, in the area between single-family houses and the apartment complexes, south of Boughton Road and east of Pinecrest Road, as indicated by the "X" on the map.

No new bodies

Police are narrowing net around murder suspect

MeT p4 MARCH 10 1983

Bolingbrook police officials say they have some specific leads in the investigation of the murder of a 10-year-old Bolingbrook boy, and officers are trying to sift through those leads now.

Police are still seeking information that will help them arrest the person who stabbed Donald Green.

The 10-year-old's body was found in Lily Cache Creek between Pinecrest Road and Kildeer Drive on Sunday, Feb. 27. He was discovered at 2:30 p.m. by children playing in the area.

Donald was last heard from at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26. Anyone who may have seen anything, no matter how insignificant, is urged to call the investigators at 759-0470.

Although police have released no new information about the case, they still feel the homicide was an isolated incident and that Donald may have known his assailant. They have not recovered the murder weapon yet. They are also working on a possible motive for the slaying.

FBI agents and police officers from neighboring communities were called in to assist last week because Bolingbrook officers were literally exhausted, Charnisky says. Donald's clothing was sent to the state crime lab for testing.

Although police have a psychological profile of the killer, they have not narrowed a suspect down to one age group, says deputy chief Ron Chruszczyk. "We have set no age limit...it could be a young teen or an adult, depending on the motive," he adds.

INVESTIGATORS HAVE been working around the clock, says police chief Bill Charnisky. Door-to-door questioning of neighbors near the scene was completed last week, but officers are recontacting some residents this week.

Charnisky says evidence leads investigators to believe that Donald may have been killed at the creek and not just dumped there later. The boy was last heard from at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26, when he called to see what time to be home for dinner.

He was seen earlier in the day at Bittersweets in the Briar Square shopping center, walking north on Pinecrest Road, at the White Hen Pantry on Pinecrest Road and had told friends he was thinking of heading for the Wizard game room.

Because Donald's body was found in the cold creek water, the coronor has not been able to determine an exact time of death.

"All we know is that he died between 4:30 p.m. Saturday when he called home and 2:30 p.m. Sunday when he was discovered," police say. They are trying to reconstruct Donald's day, especially finding someone who saw him after 4:30 p.m. Saturday, police say.

Donald, whose nickname was "Tuffy," lived with his mother and step-father, Julia and Arthur Knowles, at 294 Seabury Road. He may have been seen last at 4 p.m. at the home of his friend Tony Villachi on Seabury Road.

Realizing the fears that area parents might naturally have, extra police officers have been put on the streets, especially during the hours when children will be going to and from school and in the evening.

RUMORS CIRCULATING through town compound the fears of residents. Deputy police chief Ron Chruszczyk assures us, "There is absolutely no truth to the most prevalent rumor, that a boy's body was also found behind the Zayre store in the Bolingbrook Commons or at Ill. Rt. 53 and Briarcliff Road. Nor is there any truth to the rumor that a young Beaconridge boy has been missing since Feb. 28 or March 1."

Officials say they believe there is no connection between Donald Green's death and the abduction-murder of a 10-year-old Naperville girl, Janine Nicarico, whose body was discovered in unincorporated Naperville Township Feb. 27.

'Tuffy' murder case

Witness confesses:

MeT p3 Nov 24 1983

15-year-old arrested

Exactly one week before the murder trial of John Schwake was to begin in Will County circuit court, the chief witness for the prosecution implicated himself as an active participant in the stabbing death and sexual assault of 10-year-old Donald "Tuffy" Green, whose body was found in Lily Cache Creek in Bolingbrook last Feb. 28.

Fifteen-year-old Billy Argo, 606 Preston Drive in Bolingbrook was arrested by police Monday and is in custody in a juvenile detention home. The state, though, is asking that Argo, who was 14 at the time of the crime, be tried as an adult for murder. A hearing is set Dec. 8.

In light of the new evidence and that the witness has become another suspect, state's attorney Ed Petka says that he must re-evaluate the case against John Schwake, whose murder trial is still set to begin next Monday.

The 15-year-old was to have been the key witness against Schwake in the trial. The two had been friends and Argo had apparently helped lead police to Schwake.

Schwake had repeatedly said that he was innocent of the murder. The 23-year-old Schwake has been implicated and faces charges of taking indecent liberties with other Bolingbrook youths, as well.

During the months since Schwake's arrest last March, Billy Argo had been questioned by police and prosecutors from the state's attorney's office. There were certain "inconsistencies" in the story he told, says deputy chief Richard Kuntz, spokesman for the Bolingbrook police department.

Continuing the investigation, officials became more suspicious of Argo's story. Bolingbrook investigators, working on leads with the state's attorney, conducted more interviews, including a requestioning of Argo, which led to his confession and arrest Monday night.

People of the community reeled when they first learned that a 10-year-old boy had been murdered here, in Bolingbrook. As evidence came to light that he also might have been sexually assaulted, people feared even more for the safety of their own children.

Donald Green's murder also coincided with the abduction and subsequent death of 10-year-old Jeanine Nicarico whose bludgeoned body was found in rural woods. The coincidences of the two cases further alarmed villagers, though no connection between the two murders was ever established. DuPage County police keep the Nicarico file open, but have made no arrests, nor announced any new leads.

Sports 'scholarships' set for kids in 'Tuffy's' name

meT p13 MAR 10 1983

Two memorial funds have been started in the name of Donald "Tuffy" Green, the 10-year-old who was killed last week. Money contributed to either fund will be donated to youth sports programs in Bolingbrook.

Last fall, Tuffy was a defensive tackle and guard for the Saturday PeeWees, a team in the Trojan Football organization. Football was Tuffy's favorite sport.

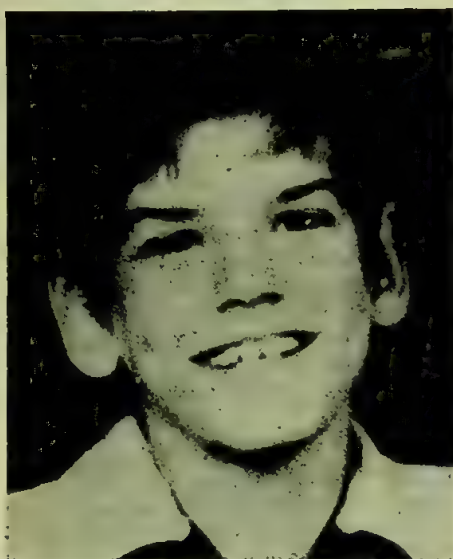

Tuffy played on the team with his neighbors and friends. His next-door neighbor and best friend's father, Vic Villacci, was also the coach of Tuffy's team. Villacci and Tony Rampino will oversee a memorial fund that's been set up at the Heritage Bank of Bolingbrook.

Arthur and Julia Knowles, Tuffy's mother and stepfather, request that contributions be divided among the baseball, football, soccer and basketball youth sports programs in town as a type of scholarship for families that can't afford to register children in those sports.

Each youth sports program routinely, and without publicity, allows children to participate on a team whether or not they can pay the registration fee. The cost of purchasing uniforms and equipment for those youths is absorbed by the sports organization, and the deficit is sometimes offset by fund-raisers.

The sports groups never publicized the fact that they would allow any one to play regardless of their ability to pay for fear that too many people would take advantage of the policy and cause a larger financial drain on the programs' already strained budgets.

Villacci and Rampino, both active in various youth sports programs in Bolingbrook for a number of years, will manage the memorial fund and plan to deposit all funds contributed into separate accounts for the youths sports groups.

Contributions to the fund can be made by mail or in person at the Heritage Bank of Bolingbrook. Checks should be made payable to the Donald Green Memorial Fund. For more information about the fund call Villacci at (312) 739-4269.

Tuffy was a fifth grade student at Brook View school, and officials there have also established a memorial fund in his name. The contributions will be donated to the Trojan Football organization in Tuffy's name. Checks should be made payable to Brook View School-Donald Green Memorial and mailed or delivered to the school, located off Pinecrest Road at 520 Gary Drive.

Investigators honored for murder case work

The entire investigative team of the Bolingbrook police department was cited by the village board of trustees in recognition of the timely arrest of the man charged with stabbing to death a 10-year-old Bolingbrook boy.

Team members were present at this week's village board meeting to be honored. In a statement commending the officers, mayor Ed Rosenthal noted that their "team work, co-operation and extraordinary investigative ability led to successful apprehension of the suspect before he could do injury to any other victims."

Those recognized were deputy police chief Ronald Chruszczyk, Sgt. Frank Cornell, investigators John Ranum, Robert Steinke, Joseph Andalina, Robert Wilkerson, James Bonk and patrolmen James Pieroni, Daniel Toomey and Guy DeCastris.

The investigators also received certificates of appreciation from the Bolingbrook Rotary Club to honor their work on the case.

SUN P1 MARCH 9 1983

There are still no prime suspects in the stabbing death of Donald Green, a 10-year-old Bolingbrook youth whose nude body was discovered last Sunday in Lily Cache Creek near the Greenleaf apartment complex on Killdeer.

"We are questioning a lot of people, but there are no prime suspects," said Deputy Chief Ronald Chruszczyk who is in charge of the investigation.

"We're checking out each and every lead we get," said Chruszczyk, "and there is still a lot of good information coming in."

The police are anxious to quiet a persistent rumor that is circulating in the community. "There are," Chruszczyk says, "no other deaths. There are no other bodies, and no other children have been reported missing."

Police officers were on the streets all weekend trying to establish a pattern to Donald Green's Saturday activities. With the help of police officers in surrounding communities, they questioned youngsters and residents in the area of Donald Green's home, and the scene where the body was found.

Donald Green often spent his Saturdays with friends at video arcades, and it is not surprising to police that several eye witnesses place him at arcades prior to his death, said Chruszczyk.

Eye witnesses place him at several locations at the same time, according to Chruszczyk. People have reported seeing him at Bittersweets and the Wizard arcade, but they're seeing his clothes, not him, said Chruszczyk.

The corner listed stabbing as the cause of death. He was unable to determine whether or not the body had been sexually abused says Chruszczyk. The murder weapon has not been found.

Bolingbrook and Naperville police have ruled out any connection between the death of 10-year-old Jeanine Nicarico, who was abducted from her home, and murdered last weekend and the Donald Green murder.

Highlights

Sometimes trouble comes more powerfully than a grumble. People die. Sometimes unexpectedly. Sometimes tragically. If it's a child, we grieve more. There was much grieving in '83. In 1983, Bolingbrook was shaken when the slain body of a 10-year-old, Donald Green, was discovered. Evidence indicated that our worst fears for our children had come all too true. Comforted some when his presumed killer was caught, we learned months later that the arrested man apparently didn't do it and that another of our youths, only 14-years-old, apparently did. We wait for a trial in 1984, but life goes on.

Argo stands trial as adult for Donald Green murder

MeT p4 Feb 23 1984

The Bolingbrook teen charged in the Feb. 17, 1983, murder of Donald Green will be tried as an adult. His bail has been set at $1 million.

On Feb. 15, associate judge John Verklan ordered William "Billy" Argo, age 15, of 606 Preston Drive, to be prosecuted as an adult on charges of murder and deviate sexual assault.

Argo was arrested on Nov. 21 just days before he was to testify as the state's star witness in the murder trial of John Schwake, age 24, who had originally been charged with Green's murder.

The murder charges against Schwake have been dismissed, but he remains in custody on $500,000 bail for other deviate sex charges.

According to Petka, the state cannot ask for the death penalty if there is a conviction because Argo is under the age of 18. A life imprisonment sentence is possible. An adult conviction under the murder and deviate sexual assault charges carries a minimum of 20-year sentence. In determining that Argo can be prosecuted as an adult, Verklan reportedly stated that at the time of the crime Argo was 14 years and 8 months old. Had he been 15-years-old, he could have automatically been tried under Illinois law as an adult without a transfer hearing.

Verklan reportedly called the crime "senseless and devastating." He ruled that there was sufficient evidence on which a grand jury could have returned an indictment for the offenses.

Westhaven man charged with murder of young boy

A charge of murder was filed Monday afternoon in Will County Circuit Court against John F. Schwake, 24, of south suburban Westhaven, in the stabbing death of 10-year-old Donald Green on Feb. 27.

Schwake is being held without bail in the Will County Jail. He was arrested in his home at 5:30 a.m. on Saturday, on initial charges of taking indecent liberties with a 12-year-old boy. The charges stemmed from incidents which occurred last fall, according to Bolingbrook police. The incidents had not been reported to police.

During a press conference Monday morning, Bolingbrook Police Chief William Charnisky stated that the arrest was the result of outstanding work by Detective Sgt. Frank Cornell, who was in charge of the murder investigation; by Deputy Chief Ronald Chrusczyk, who coordinated the investigation; and by Detectives Joseph Andalina, Robert Wilkerson, Robert Stienke, and John Ranum. Chief Charnisky also noted that investigators James Bonk, James Pieroni and Dan Toomey played a large part in solving the case.

According to Charnisky, Schwake was discharged from the U.S. Army last August, and has been unemployed since then. He has been living with his parents in Westhaven, although Charnisky did note that Schwake had resided for a short time with a Bolingbrook family.

Schwake continued to "hang around" in Bolingbrook, according to Charnisky, and during the course of the investigation into the Green boy's murder, Schwake's name came to the attention of Bolingbrook police.

Memorial fund established for Donald Green

A memorial fund to provide sports scholarships for youngsters who cannot afford to play in the Bolingbrook youth sports organizations has been set up in memory of Donald Green.

Checks to the fund can be made to the Donald Green Memorial Fund in care of Midwest Savings and Loan, Bolingbrook.

John F. Schwake

The boy's body, with one stab wound in the chest, was found in the shallow waters of Lily Cache Creek, behind the Greenleaf apartment complex, 17 hours after he was reported missing by his family. He had telephoned his home on Feb. 26 at about 4 p.m., but police have not yet ascertained from where the call was made.

According to Chief Charnisky, the investigative work of the police places Schwake at the scene of the murder.

"The key motive is deviate sexual assault," said Chief Charnisky. "Through interviews during the investigation, it was learned that this man had been involved in taking indecent liberties with other young boys, although the acts were not reported at the time."

"Other witnesses have put him at the scene, and he was reported seen around town that day," Charnisky said.

Additional charges are pending, police officials said. Sgt. Cornell noted that there are at least three specific reports of alleged deviate sexual conduct by Schwake involving youths under the age of 14, within the last six months.

A multitude of leads were followed up by police investigating the crime, Deputy Chief Chrusczyk said. Most of the leads were developed during a house-to-house canvass of a large portion of the eastern part of Bolingbrook.

"We hit every one of those apartments in the complex and every house from Boughton road south, through the area in which Donald Green lived," Chrusczyk said.

An interview with a 12-year-old youth led to Schwake's arrest, and after the first charge of indecent liberties was filed, other witnesses and information led to the murder charge, police officials said. No details on the evidence leading to the charges was revealed, but Chief Charnisky said he believes there is a strong case.

Police officials also stated that their investigation has not concluded, and they are still attempting to obtain more information about Schwake and his activities in Bolingbrook.

Investigators who had worked from 12 to 20 hours per day since the body of Donald Green was found are still continuing their efforts to compile more information, in an effort to make the case even more solid.

Anyone who has information which could be of benefit to the police in the case may assist by calling 759-0470.

Murder suspect linked to many boys, other towns

A 12-year old Bolingbrook boy gave police information that led to the arrest of the man now charged with the murder of 10-year-old Donald Green. The boy told police he had been sexually molested in the fall of 1982. He knew the man's name and where he lived.

John F. Schwake, 23, was arrested at 5 a.m. Saturday, March 12, in his parent's home in Westhaven, a suburb in southwest Cook County. He was charged with taking indecent liberties with the 12-year-old and held in Will County Jail on $500,000 bond.

Evidence leads authorities to suspect Schwake is responsible for several cases of child molestation in Bolingbrook. The 24-year-old may be wanted in other towns, even other states, as well.

In addition to being attracted to young boys, Schwake also apparently wanted to become a cop. He applied to become a police officer in Bolingbrook last fall, having taken the written and agility tests, as well applying in such other communities as his home town of Westhaven and Midlothian.

He was formally charged with Donald's murder Monday afternoon and is being held without bond awaiting a hearing on April 17.

Police say they have a confession to the one earlier case of sexual molestation, but, when they questioned Schwake about Green's stabbing, Schwake asked for an attorney. He has been assigned a public defender.

Several witnesses place Schwake in the area on Feb. 27, police say. Other sources say that both Green and Schwake were seen near the Pinecrest Plaza shopping center the day Green disappeared. The plaza adjoins the open field and creek where Donald was found dead.

Although the boy's unclothed body was found in Lily Cache Creek, on Sunday, Feb. 28, officials say they believe Donald was killed late Saturday afternoon. They would not reveal the information that leads them to that conclusion.

"We believe the motive was sexual molestation. We don't know what happened to turn it into a homicide," says police chief Bill Charnisky. The coroner's autopsy did not offer any conclusive evidence that the boy had been molested. "We do not know if the boy was assaulted. We know that an attempt was probably made," Charnisky says.

No weapon has been recovered, and police do not know whether or not Donald knew Schwake.

"Several boys in the area did know him. Donald may have too. We just don't know at this point whether the boy was lured to the creek or if it was a chance meeting," Charnisky says.

"The investigation is just beginning. We are going to continue the investigation to build an even stronger case," he says. Investigators still want to hear from anyone who might have information.

Schwake, who was discharged from the Army in July, 1982, after serving as a military policeman, lived in Bolingbrook for a short time before moving back to Westhaven to live with his mother and step-father, police say.

As far as police know, Schwake is single and unemployed.

Officials don't know why Schwake frequently returned to Bolingbrook or if this was the only town where he "hung out," they add. He appears to favor boys between the ages of 10-14, says police.

"But as far as we know, he doesn't have a record," says deputy chief Ron Chruszczyk. "We expect, though, to be hearing from other departments (in other towns) now that the case is broken."

The "break" in the case was a result of old-fashioned police field work, officials say. Investigators conducted as many as 800 interviews, hitting literally every home and apartment in the boy's neighborhood and in the area near Lily Cache Creek where his body was discovered.

"We kept hearing the same name from several boys," says Sgt. Frank Cornell. "That name was John Schwake. Some of the boys were obviously upset. We didn't feel they were involved in the homicide, that it was something else."

Finally, the 12-year-old admitted that he had been molested by Schwake. He had never told his parents about the incident.

Cornell says that the investigation already indicates that at least two other Bolingbrook boys may have been sexually molested by Schwake.

Police have not filed charges in those cases yet, so two, possibly three, more charges against him are pending, Chruszczyk says.

"We kept hearing the same name from a great many kids. We have to think there may have been others," he says.

Some of the boys met Schwake at a pond not far from the spot where the body was discovered, Cornell says. "The kids fished there, and Schwake fished there."

Reviewing the sequence that led to the arrest, Sgt. Cornell says, the whole case was based upon developing leads in the field. Though important evidence was gathered at the creek site, the case was still wide open, he says.

Investigators were looking for information that would help them piece together Donald's day. As many as 26 officers and additional detectives from the felony investigation assistance team (FIAT) canvassed the neighborhood near Donald's home and the creek, working around the clock, he says.

Detectives Joe Andalina, Bob Wilkerson, Bob Stienke and John Ranum were responsible for tracking down initial leads to Schwake and developing those leads to make the arrest, Charnisky says.

The chief also credits investigators Jim Bonk, Jim Pierone, Dan Toomey and Cornell for their field work.

On Monday, police from Topeka, Kansas, contacted Bolingbrook police for information about Schwake. He had been stationed in the Army at Fort Riley, Kansas, just 70 miles away from Topeka. They were seeking information about the stabbing and beating death of a 12-year-old Kansas boy in 1979.

In that case, similar to the Green case, authorities could not determine whether the boy had been sexually molested, but they suspected that was the motive, local police were told. In addition, the Kansas victim was discovered in a shallow creek.

Topeka investigators were going to contact military intelligence personnel Tuesday to determine whether Schwake was assigned to the base in May, 1979, Kansas police indicated.

Donald Green was a fifth grade student at Brook View School, he loved football and he was affectionately nicknamed "Tuffy." He lived with his mother and step-father, Julia and Arthur Knowles.

BEACON/SUN P. 1 APR 6 1983

The Will County grand jury on Wednesday, March 30, returned an indictment for murder against John Schwake, 23, of Westhaven, in connection with the slaying of 10-year-old Donald Green of Bolingbrook.

Schwake was also named in an indictment charging indecent liberties with a 12-year-old Bolingbrook boy on Dec. 31, 1982. That case had not be reported to police, but was discovered by authorities during the investigation of the death of Donald Green.

The young boy's body had been found Feb. 27 in Lily

Cache Creek, near the Greenleaf apartment complex, a little east of Pinecrest road. The fifth-grade student at Brook View School had been reported missing by his family about 17 hours before the body was recovered.

The indictment states Green was fatally stabbed in the chest on Feb. 26.

Schwake, who had been held in the Will County Jail since his arrest by Bolingbrook Police March 12 at his home, is to appear before Circuit Judge Michael Buchar at 9:30 a.m. April 7 for preliminaries to arraignment.

New arrest is made in murder of youth

BEACON/SUN P. 1 NOV 23 1983

The case of the Feb. 27 murder of 10-year-old Donald Green of Bolingbrook took a bizarre turn this week when Bolingbrook Police on Monday arrested a fifteen-year-old Bolingbrook youth in connection with that case. The teenager has been charged with murder and deviate sexual assault.

Last March, John F. Schwake, 24, of Westhaven, had been charged with murder in the stabbing death of the Green youth. The boy's body, with one stab wound in the chest, was found in the shallow waters of Lily Cache Creek, behind the Greenleaf apartment complex, 17 hours after he had been reported missing by his family.

According to Bolingbrook Deputy Chief of Police Richard Kuntz, the teenager who has been charged with murder was originally supposed to be a key witness for the State in the case against Schwake.

Schwake had been arrested two weeks after the murder, following an investigation which found police detectives working from 12 to 20 hours a day, in an attempt to develop leads.

A house-to-house canvass of the eastern portion of the Village led to an interview with a 12-year-old youth, which led to Schwake's arrest. Police at that time said there were at least three specific reports of alleged deviate sexual conduct by Schwake involving youths under the age of 14, within six months before the murder.

Schwake had reportedly been discharged from the U.S. Army in August, 1982, and was unemployed. He had reportedly resided with a Bolingbrook family for some time, but later moved to his parents' home in Westhaven, but continued to "hang around" Bolingbrook, according to police.

As preparations were being made for Schwake's trial, which was to begin next Monday, one of the assistants to State's Attorney Ed Petka detected discrepancies in the testimony of one of the State's female witnesses.

According to Petka, the earlier testimony of the witness would have discounted an alibi which Schwake had earlier claimed. Later, said Petka, the witness said some things which cast doubt on part of her story.

"Once it became apparent we were not getting the whole story," said Petka, "we asked Bolingbrook Police to further check out information pertaining to the case, and they worked very hard re-checking every bit of information."

Bolingbrook Police investigators once again interviewed the 15-year-old, and during the course of the interview, said Deputy Chief Kuntz, the youth implicated himself as being an active participant in the stabbing.

Petka stated: "He gave us enough information where we had to charge him as a principal."

The teenager was held at the Kane County Youth Home Monday night, and after a hearing in Joliet at 1:30 p.m., he was ordered detained pending a transfer hearing on Dec. 8. He was returned to the Kane County Youth Home where he will be held until Dec. 8, when the State's Attorney will request his transfer to the adult division.

"I don't want anyone thinking that Schwake is going to walk out on the streets on Monday," said Petka, "because there are additional charges for child molestation being filed against him."

Schwake murder charges dropped

Murder charges against John Schwake were dropped Monday. The 23-year-old had been accused of the murder of Youth to stand trial as adult for murder

A 15-year-old Bolingbrook youth will be tried as an adult for the Feb. 27, 1983, murder of Donald Green, 10, of Bolingbrook.

Associate Judge John Verklan last Wednesday ordered William "Billy" Argo, of 606 Preston dr. to be prosecuted as an adult on the charges of murder and deviate sexual assault.

In his ruling in Will County Circuit Court, Judge Verklan found that at the time of the crime, Argo was 14-years and 8-months old. Verklan said that had Argo been 4 months older, the youth automatically would have been tried as an adult under Illinois law without a transfer hearing.

Verklan said there was sufficient evidence on which a grand jury could have returned an indictment for the offenses. "Indeed," said Judge Verklan, "it was a devastating, depraved crime on a 10-year-old boy who suffered an ignoble death." He called the crime "senseless."

The judge added that the best interest of the minor and the security of the public may require Argo being held in custody or under supervision beyond age 21, which is the maximum age Argo could be held in a juvenile detention facility if he was found guilty of the crimes. An adult conviction under the same charges mandates a minimum 20-year sentence.

Argo was arrested as a suspect on Nov. 21, 1983, just before he was to testify as the state's key witness in the murder and sex crime trial of John Schwake, 24, of Westhaven. Investigators said they discovered inconsistencies in Argo's story, which eventually led to his arrest for the crimes Schwake had originally been charged with.

The murder and sex crime charges against Schwake were dismissed. However he remains in custody in the Will County Jail under $500,000 bail for other sexual deviancy charges.

Sixteen-year-old convicted of brutal sex slaying

Sixteen-year-old William "Billy" Argo of Bolingbrook was found guilty this week of the murder of 10-year-old Donald Green. Green's body was found floating in Lily Cache Creek on Feb. 27, 1983.

Sentencing has been set for Sept. 10. Assistant state's attorney Kathleen Patton, who with Thomas Sealy prosecuted the case, says her office has not decided what sentence they will recommend. Argo was tried as an adult. He faces a minimum sentence of 20 years and a maximum of 40 years in prison.

A jury of six men and six women deliberated for 3 1/2 hours before returning the guilty verdict Friday, July 27.

Argo reportedly gave Bolingbrook police four different statements between March and November of 1983. Each of those statements varied, police testified.

Argo finally confessed to sexually assaulting and then stabbing the 10-year-old victim. That recorded statement, taken last November, nine months after the killing, was played for the jury.

Argo said that he and his half-brother, Danny Elmore, 18, went to Lily Cache Creek to do some fishing on the afternoon of Feb. 26, 1983. They spotted Green, who was already at the creek. According to his statement, Argo asked his half-brother if he wanted to have some "fun" with the victim.

"His idea of 'fun' was sexual," says prosecutor Patton.

In the recorded statement, Argo told how he and his half-brother tossed the Green boy back and forth between them. They held him down and took his clothing off. The brothers took turns forcing, at knifepoint, the 10-year-old to perform deviate sexual acts. Argo then sexually assaulted the boy, according to the confession tape.

When Donald reportedly threatened "to tell," Argo, according to his own statement, stabbed him. The brothers then threw his body in the creek. No charges have been brought against Elmore.

DURING THE TRIAL, defense attorneys tried to paint a picture of Argo, who was not quite 15 at the time of the murder, being the victim of some sort of police badgering, pointing to the several interviews with the youth.

Prosecutors say, "Billy Argo's (final) statement to police matched perfectly to what happened. He supplied details that fit too perfectly (to the crime)."

"He told police where to find the (pocket) knife," prosecutor Patton says. Argo reportedly drew a map of his room and directed police to the spot where the alleged murder weapon was hidden. Police found the knife there.

At the trial, a medical expert testified that the knife did match the fatal wound to Donald Green's chest and that it could have been the murder weapon, prosecutors say.

"Argo knew how many times the boy had been stabbed and how the body was lying in the water. He knew that Green's shoes had been untied rather than just yanked off and he knew that Green's clothing had been turned right-side-out," Patton says.

During the trial, defense attorney William Ford questioned police about an anonymous caller who told them that there was a dead body in Lily Cache Creek, apparently less than an hour after Donald Green was murdered.

THE CALL CAME into the police department at 4:58 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 26. Green's parents reported the boy missing later that night, around 10-year-old Donald "Tuffy" Green of Bolingbrook after the youth's body was found near Lily Cache Creek last March. Schwake was arrested and jailed on charges of murder and sexual deviate assault of young boys within two weeks after the murder.

Says Will County state's attorney Ed Petka, he can't prove the murder charges against Schwake now, not after the arrest of the 15-year-old boy, Billy Argo, who was to be the chief witness against Schwake.

Argo was arrested two weeks ago after attorneys from Petka's office and Bolingbrook police requested the youth. Argo reportedly admitted a much more active role in the murder than he had previously indicated to police.

"Schwake no longer appears to have been an active participant in the murder itself," says state's attorney Petka.

Though murder charges were dismissed against the 23-year-old, who had always maintained his innocence regarding the murder, three more charges were added against Schwake for aggravated and indecent liberties with minors. The charges involve different young boys in Bolingbrook.

Even more charges might have been pressed against Schwake except that parents of some of the boys want to spare their children from having to be involved in the court. Parents worry about the psychological harm of their experiences already.

Petka says that the discovery at this point that Schwake was apparently not the murderer illustrates the checks and balances in the justice and law enforcement system that eventually protects the innocent in this case, from wrongful prosecution.

CHARGES AGAINST Schwake are still Class X felonies, so Schwake was not arrested and jailed for nothing, Petka adds.

As for 15-year-old Argo, the state is asking that he be transferred to adult court to be tried as an adult for murder. Since he was 14 at the time of the crime, a judge must grant permission for the transfer.

Under Illinois law that went into effect in 1982, 15- and 16-year-olds arrested for murder, deviate sexual assault, rape or armed robbery automatically are prosecuted as adults, as are all people age 17 or over. Youth ages 13 and 14 may be handled in juvenile courts. If certain factors are met, a judge may also transfer them to adult courts if requested by the state's attorney.

Judge Robert Bucher agreed to dismiss the murder charges against Schwake, based on a motion from Petka, the case having been transferred to Bucher's court following a heart attack sustained by judge Angelo Pistillo last weekend.

Schwake was a prime suspect in the murder until November of 1983. According to Bolingbrook police, Schwake had given them an alibi when he was first arrested. The people who were to support that alibi did not, police say. Months later those witnesses came forward and proved that Schwake was not in Bolingbrook at the time of the murder.

Argo then changed his story, they say. The murder charge against Schwake was dropped. He has since been sentenced to eight years in prison on four counts of taking indecent liberties with minor boys, ranging in age from eight to 11, based on information and testimony of Bolingbrook boys who came forward during the murder investigation.

Argo told police that he implicated Schwake because he was trying to protect his brother, Elmore. In the taped confession, Argo said that the pair had made a pact that if either were caught, one would protect the other.

Age, crime determine disposition

Although Argo was tried as an adult for the murder of Donald Green, the state could not seek the death penalty against him because Argo was under the age of 18 at the time of the crime, says assistant state's attorney Kathleen Patton.

Argo will be held in a juvenile correctional facility until he is 17. He has been held at the St. Charles, Kane County youth facility.

When he is 17, he can be transferred to an adult correctional facility, such as Stateville, to serve the remainder of his term. At age 17, he can request a hearing to remain in a juvenile facility until he is 21 years old, at which time transfer would be automatic.

Argo was 14 years old at the time of the killing. A hearing was required before he could be tried as an adult.

Prosecutors presented evidence asking that he be transferred to adult jurisdiction because the offense was murder and the case involved multiple offenses (sexual assault).

Had he been 15 or 16 years old at the time of the crime, he would have automatically been tried as an adult.

In Illinois, juveniles ages 15 and 16 at the time of committing a Class X felony can be tried as adults without hearings before juvenile court judges.

At ages 13 or 14, a judge can order but only after a hearing for a youth to stand trial as an adult for major crimes. Under the age of 13, juveniles are immune from adult trials, no matter what the crime.

Ages 17 to 21 are greyer areas where youths are apt to be tried as adults, but at the discretion of court officials.

Longtime North View teacher dies

Graham began her teaching career in 1940 and continued teaching until her illness forced a retirement last February. A moment of silence in her memory was observed at Monday night's school board meeting.

Says her principal at North View, Bill Zielke, she was highly respected, had a good attitude about life — and death, as the cancer spread. She kept working as long as she could and never felt sorry for herself, says Zielke. A learning disabilities teacher, she was often impatient for all the paperwork to get completed so that a student would become eligible for the program and she could start helping, says Zielke.

Graham was one of the original staff members at North View School when it opened in 1963. She had taught in the Valley View district at the former Park View School (now R.C. Hill) before North View. Previously, she spent several years teaching in LaSalle County

Girl killed in accident

BEACON P6 APR 14 1982

At approximately 8:15 p.m. on April 7, 13-year old Felicia Gates of 305 Woodcreek was killed when a car which her 11-year-old sister Gloria was sitting in, went into reverse, dragging the 13-year-old, who was standing next to the car.

The girl was thrown under a garbage dumpster which was pushed off the ground by the impact of the car. The dumpster then fell on the girl. She was transported to Edward Hospital where she later died because of the injuries.

The mother, Brenda Stewart was at work when the incident occurred. The girls were staying with Paula Yates, who sent the girls to the car to bring back the groceries from the back seat. It appears, said police, that the girls started the car with the keys Yates gave them to unlock the doors.

Teen killed by runaway car

MeT P2 APRIL 15 1982

A 13-year-old Bolingbrook girl was killed when her younger sister apparently accidentally backed a car into a trash dumpster which then fell on the teenager.

Felicia Gates of 305B Woodcreek Drive died at Edward Hospital at about 10 p.m. April 7. The accident happened at approximately 8:15 p.m. that day in the Meadowbrook Apartment complex.

Gates and her 11-year-old sister Gloria had just returned from a shopping trip with neighbor Paula Yates who was watching the children while their mother Brenda Stewart was at work. Yates gave the girls the car keys so that they could help bring in some groceries. Police say one of the girls apparently started the car with the keys.

Felicia was standing outside the car on the drivers side with the door open. When the auto was accidentally put into reverse, she was dragged several feet and thrown under a dumpster which was lifted off the ground by the impact of the car. The dumpster then fell on Felicia.

Police say Gloria may have tried to stop the car and hit the accelerator by mistake. She was found in the car after the accident.

Car chase ends in death of resident

A minor hit-and-run accident led to a man's death a short time later when two vehicles collided at the intersection of Boughton Road and Brighton Lane on Bolingbrook's far westside on Thursday, Feb. 18.

George Gemmecke, 38, of Evergreen Drive, was killed when pinned under his Aerostar mini-van after colliding with a vehicle driven by Paul Timchak, 34, of Sunshine Drive.

Witnesses at the site thought that it was just a case of Gemmecke ignoring the stop sign at Brighton Lane as he attempted to cross Boughton Road.

Days later, when his wife, Catherine Gemmecke talked with police, they had a clearer picture of what happened. She was in the van with her husband driving.

According to Bolingbrook deputy police chief Richard Kuntz, the Gemmecke's had been at the exit from Fair Lanes bowling alley on Boughton Road when they were involved in a minor accident with a "small, red car."

The car left the scene and Gemmecke pursued. He ran the red light at Boughton and Schmidt roads and traveled west toward Naperville Road.

Witnesses stated that the two vehicles turned north on Brighton into the Woodleaf subdivision.

Chasing through Woodleaf, the driver of the red car emerged on Brighton Road heading south, ignoring the stop sign at Boughton Road and dashing across the county highway toward the Jamie McGee Elementary School neighborhood.

George Gemmecke attempted to follow. But when he entered Boughton Road, he struck Timchak's vehicle, which was eastbound on Boughton Road.

At impact, the Gemmecke's van tipped over and began to roll. He was thrown across his wife's lap and halfway out the passenger's side window. The overturned vehicle trapped him underneath it. He was pronounced dead on arrival after Paramedics unpinning him to the Bolingbrook Medical Center.

Fire and police personnel to the scene by witnesses

7:30 p.m. An area homeowner had already extinguished a small fire on the Gemmecke vehicle with a fire extinguisher.

Catherine Gemmecke and Paul Timchak were injured in the crash, transported for treatment, and released.

Mrs. Gemmecke told police that their van was struck by another car as the couple was entering the Fair Lanes parking lot at 401 W. Boughton rd. for their regular Thursday night bowling league.

Following the collision, the other vehicle — described as a small, red newer model, squarish in shape with round tail lights and an eye-level brake light — then headed west on to Boughton road.

Mrs. Gemmecke told the police that her husband backed onto Boughton road and began a high-speed chase Gemmecke, who was traveling at an estimated speed of 70 miles per hour, ran a red light at Boughton and Schmidt road as he pursued the other vehicle.

Both cars reportedly turned north on Brighton lane into the Woodleaf subdivision and sped through the neighborhood.

Witnesses in the area saw the red car and the van heading south on Brighton lane. The red car then streaked across Boughton road without stopping. Gemmecke attempted to do the same but did not clear the intersection, striking the rear of Timchek's vehicle as it headed east on Boughton road.

According to the police report, Timchek did not see Gemmecke's car. When the cars collided, Timchek was aware that "something" struck his car but did not know what it was until he regained consciousness and paramedics told him about the other car.

Bolingbrook police, responding to a report of reckless driving, were on the scene immediately after the accident occurred.

Neither the Gemmeckes nor Timchek were wearing safety belts.

World War II divides Poland, brothers

Emotional reunion brings brothers back together after 50 years apart

SUN P 22 AUG 24 1994

By Robyn M. Johnson

Out of sight does not necessarily mean out of mind.

Since the end of World War II, for nearly half a century, brothers Walter and Bolek Gawecki did not see each other or even hear one another's voice. However, they were always in each other's thoughts.

And finally, after 50 years of letters, photos and hope, Walter and Bolek were reunited at O'Hare International Airport about three weeks ago. After an emotional reunion, Bolek, who had just arrived from Poland, went with Walter to stay at his Bolingbrook home.

The brothers' lives were divided in 1945, after the U.S. liberated Poland from Germany during World War II. Walter, 71, joined the Occupation Armed Forces, but discouraged his brother, Bolek, 69, from doing the same because "it was very hard work." Bolek subsequently went back to Poland to be with the rest of the Gawecki family. And until July, the brothers hadn't seen each other since they were teenagers coping with the trauma of post-war Poland and of a year-long stay in a forced labor camp.

A Bolingbrook resident since 1976, Walter and his brother were born and raised in Hutastara, a small village in Poland located near the city of Kielce. In 1948, Walter, who "disliked the communist government," decided to emigrate to Canada where he eventually became a citizen. While working as a gold miner in Ontario, he met his wife, Janinia, who passed away two years ago. The couple moved to Chicago in 1962. Walter and Janinia lived in Bolingbrook for nearly 20 years, where they raised three daughters and one son. After a 25-year career in the printing business, Walter retired six years ago.

On the other end of the spectrum, Bolek went back to work on the Gawecki family farm after the war and today, he owns and works on his wife's family property. The two farms are separated by a mere 150 yards, and Bolek has spent his entire life in the village where he was born and raised. He has never traveled, much less been on an airplane, until his trip to the U.S. in July.

While the circumstances of their lives have been quite different, Walter and Bolek said they have had no trouble getting to know each other again.

"We are very much alike. It's like time never passed," said Walter.

"Every day we get to know each other again better and better. We laugh every day and feel like teenagers. If people see us together, we look like two jokers."

Upon seeing his brother at the airport, Bolek said he "knew it was Walter right away," and that it was a great moment because he "never thought he would see (his brother) again."

Walter said he became "very choked up" upon seeing Bolek, and recognized him "even though he was too skinny."

Walter and his son, John Gawecki, also a Bolingbrook resident, have been working on putting a few extra "American pounds" on Bolek. In fact, John said his uncle gained 10 pounds since he arrived. Most of the cuisine Bolek has enjoyed during his visit has been quite familiar, as Walter has donned an apron over the last few weeks to cook many Polish favorites, such as potatoes, kielbasa and sauerkraut.

Heading into less familiar territory, however, Bolek has been "amazed" with the United States compared to Poland and said that "there are no words to describe what he has seen during the visit." In particular, Bolek has observed a microwave oven for the first time, and is also astonished by the amounts of food available for "anyone and everyone" in the local supermarkets.

"This is not a country," he said. "This is a heaven. We can't even compare what we have in Poland to what people have here."

In fact, John Gawecki said before his uncle left on his trip, neighbors in the 1,000-person village came over to visit Bolek "just to see someone who was going to America."

"Every person would come to America if they could," he said. "Every person there would emigrate."

"Everybody in Poland loves Americans," Walter said. "The ingenuity, schools and modern way of America has always been respected by the people."

Even so, it hasn't been until recently that the doors were opened to travel in and out of Poland. With a "New Poland" created under Solidarity leader Lech Walensa, the brothers said they were finally able to obtain a visa easily for Bolek. Until the last few years, however, both said it was "rather risky" to arrange a visit from either side.

"I was afraid before now that if I went to visit Bolek, I wouldn't be allowed to return (to the U.S.)," Walter said. "And before changes were made in Poland, it was also difficult to obtain a visa for him to visit here."

The brothers plan to do some sight-seeing during Bolek's trip, including Soldier Field because Bolek saw the Chicago stadium as he watched World Cup soccer on T.V. from Poland and would like to return home to state that "he was there."

In the meantime, the brothers have spent the first few weeks of Bolek's visit catching up on the last 50 years. This is no easy task, Walter said, since so much of their lives have been missing from each other. In three weeks, he said, they are "still discussing (their) teen years so far," and haven't gotten any further.

Bolek doesn't speak English, so Walter has been assisting him with translation since he arrived. The word "retirement," however, doesn't seem to translate into Polish. According to Walter, his brother works from "morning until night" on his farm in Poland and considers sitting down a "waste of time."

Bolek's visa doesn't expire for a year, but his visit will most likely end in about two months because he is "already a bit homesick" for his wife, four children and 12 grandchildren. So, more visits are in order, the brothers have agreed, starting with a trip to Poland next year for Walter.

"Being together even a few short weeks has been 'like a dream,' Walter said, and the brothers "are like kids again." Even so, parting in a few weeks will be bitter-sweet.

"Each night, before we go to bed, we still hug each other," Walter said. "It's like we can't believe we are seeing each other, and we appreciate it so much."

Brothers' gunfight leaves both dead

Bolingbrook men shoot each other multiple times

SUN MAR 2 2007 p1

By Joe Hovey

SUN-TIMES NEWS GROUP

Jorge Delacruz got a 4 a.m. telephone call Wednesday from the Bolingbrook police telling him to get in his basement. When he came out a couple hours later there was a hole in his wall and a bullet on his stairs.

"They didn't even tell me what happened," Delacruz said. "Just, 'For your safety, go to the basement.'"

What happened, police said later that day, was that two brothers living in the house next door, John H. Gray, 50, and Michael L. Gray, 47, shot it out on the stairs of their Porter Lane home. Both brothers put multiple bullets in each other and died before police arrived.

Officers reportedly recovered a pair of handguns from the scene. The body of one brother was found in the house at the top of the stairs, and the body of the other at the bottom, an official said. Detectives believe both died shooting it out with each other, said Bolingbrook Assistant Police Chief Kevin McCarthy.

At least four other people, and possibly as many as six, were in the house during the Gray brothers' gunfight on the stairs, police said.

One of the occupants, an 18-year-old, called police, McCarthy said. Officers convinced the teen to leave the house and to take two younger children with him. Delacruz said the younger children, a 12-year-old boy and a 9-year-old girl, are friends with his own children.

"I came out to work out this morning about 5 and they had everything blocked off. (An officer) just waved me on and said everything was all right. And I know everything was not all right."

Jordan Friend, 12, stands across the street from the crime scene at 538 Porter Drive in Bolingbrook, where two men were found dead early Wednesday morning. The boy is friends with two young boys who live at the home where the shootings took place.

Jonathan Milano / Staff photographer

Delacruz said he saw the two children and an adult run from the house to the protection of police outside about 6 a.m. Delacruz said the bodies of the Gray brothers were not removed from the house until after 2 p.m.

McCarthy said this was because police were processing the crime scene.

"(The investigation) was quite extensive," he said.

Another resident, identified by McCarthy as a "middle-age" adult, was home at the time of the killings but was unaware of what transpired until after the fact.

The man has "health issues" and was in an upstairs bedroom, McCarthy said. He had no involvement in the supposed domestic dispute between the Gray brothers and the ensuing shootout.

Police would not disclose the relationship between the Gray brothers, the two children, the older teen and the sick man upstairs. Delacruz said two adult women also live at the house but it was not clear if they were home at the time of the killings.

Like the deceased Gray brothers' neighbor Delacruz, others on the block had no idea why the law had shut down their street early Wednesday and why the place was crawling with cops when they woke up.

"I came out to work out this morning about 5 and they had everything blocked off," said Larry Wynn, who lives across the street from the victims' house. "(An officer) just waved me on and said everything was all right. And I know everything was not all right."

Jim Hobbs, who with his wife, Karen, also lives across the street from the Grays' home, said he asked police on the scene if there was cause for concern Wednesday morning.

"He said, 'No, don't worry about it.' And that was it," Hobbs said. "Then, come to find out, two dead bodies."

After Glow

I'd like the memory of me to be a happy one.

I'd like to leave an after glow of smiles when life is done.

I'd like to leave an echo whispering softly down the ways, of happy times and laughing times and bright and sunny days.

I'd like the tears of those who grieve, to dry before the sun of happy memories that I leave when life is done.

– Author unknown

I'm Free

Don't grieve for me, for now I'm free.
I'm following the path God has laid for me.
I took His hand when I heard Him call.
I turned my back and left it all.

I could not stay another day,
To laugh, to love, to work or play.
Tasks left undone must stay that way.
I found that peace at the close of the day.

If my parting has left a void,
Then fill it with remembered joys.
A friendship shared, a laugh, a kiss,
Oh yes, these things I too shall miss.

Be not burdened with times of sorrow.
I wish you the sunshine of tomorrow.
My life's been full, I savored much,
Good friends, good times, a loved one's touch.

Perhaps my time seemed all too brief.
Don't lengthen it now with undue grief.
Lift up your hearts and peace to thee.
God wanted me now; He set me free!

White Fence Farm owner dies at 73

SUN July 9, 2010 p 17

CCAIN@STIMEDIANETWORK.COM

Robert "Bob" Hastert, owner and manager of White Fence Farm, died last week at the age of 73. For most of his life, he helped run the restaurant just south of Bolingbrook known for its "World Famous" pressure-cooked, flash-fried chicken. "I knew Bob all my life," said former state Rep. Brent Hassert, who grew up next to the restaurant and worked there when he was younger.

"Bob was just a caring individual and very involved in local charity organizations," Hassert said. "He was a giving guy."

Hassert said for many years Hastert was at the restaurant night and day. "He was very dedicated, as the whole family was, to White Fence Farm," Hassert said. "That was his life."

Hastert lived in Lemont and was a lifelong resident of the area. In addition to his restaurant duties, Hastert also was a Navy veteran and a longtime member and past president of the Lockport Rotary Club.

He loved the outdoors, was an avid boater and snowmobiler, according to obituary information supplied by his family.

Hassert said he remembers riding horses along the Des Plaines River with Hastert, who was called "junior." The two men would joke that they were cousins because their names were so similar.

"He'll be missed by the White Fence Farm community and the extended community as well," Hassert said.

In a story on White

Fence Farm's 55th anniversary, Hastert beamed with pride over his family's business.

"The food is always good, hot and healthy," he said. "The place is clean and all who are here are friendly every time you visit. You can count on that. That is why we are still in business after 55 years. We do a couple of things — and we do them right! I guarantee it!"

Hastert is survived by daughters Laura Hastert-Gardner and Susan M. Hastert. His wife, Jeanne Hastert, preceded him in death.

Hastert's parents, Robert Sr. and Doris Hastert started the restaurant in 1954. Doris passed away in August 2006. Robert Sr. passed away in 1998.

Funeral services for Hastert were held last week.

"Bob was just a caring individual and very involved in local charity organizations. He was a giving guy."

Former state representative

Longtime Lemont restaurant owner

By Patricia Trebe
Special to the Tribune

Doris Mae Hastert and her late husband owned White Fence Farm. She was the aunt of U.S. House Speaker Dennis Hastert.

Doris Mae Hastert and her husband took a one-dining-room restaurant and successfully built White Fence Farm into a fried chicken lover's mecca.

"They were a great team. They stuck with it and built up a monster business," said her son Douglas. "She was all business. She was very much into making the business grow and be successful and she was successful at it."

Up until three weeks ago, Mrs. Hastert could be found at the restaurant meeting, greeting and directing guests to one of the 11 dining rooms.

"She was the little white-haired lady at the front door," her son said.

Mrs. Hastert, 93, of Lemont died of natural causes Monday, Aug. 14, in her home.

In 1954, the couple found an empty restaurant on the Peabody coal estate in Lemont. A previous owner had gone bankrupt.

"Mom bought it and remodeled it, brought in the chicken formula that was used in [their Aurora restaurant] and it took off," her son said.

Each year during January and February, the couple would close the restaurant and build another dining room.

"For 10 straight years they expanded it. Today it seats 1,100," her son said.

Mrs. Hastert spent her early years in Stewart, Ill., before her family moved to Joliet. While a student at Joliet Township High School, she relished the limelight she received when she played saxophone on the stage of the Rialto Theater in Joliet.

"She was an entertainer at heart. She was a comedienne and a joker. She was a funny lady," her son said.

She married her husband in the early 1930s. At the time, her husband was working for the Joliet Poultry Market. The couple opened a similar market in downtown Aurora in the mid-1930s.

"It was retail and wholesale. Farmers would bring live chickens to the back door of the market and [my parents] would kill, dress and sell them to go out the front door," her son said.

The market supplied chickens to the U.S. government during World War II.

Shortly after the war, the market evolved into a restaurant and the couple started Harmony House on New York Street.

Mrs. Hastert designed, decorated, and was hostess and manager of the restaurant.

The couple sold Harmony House to buy White Fence Farm.

By 1959, Mrs. Hastert and her husband were living on the property after they built a home near the restaurant on Old Route 66.

Her husband died in 1998.

Beyond her sharp business sense and skills, Mrs. Hastert possessed a quick wit and a love of laughter.

"I couldn't give you a favorite memory because she was so much fun and so sweet," said granddaughter Heidi Sterlacci. "She loved to laugh and liked to have fun. She loved people. She had you laughing in stitches. She was just a wonderful person."

Mrs. Hastert's nephew is Dennis Hastert, speaker of the U.S. House.

"When I took my mother to these fundraisers that Denny held, as soon as he started to speak she would stand up and start to wave at him and yell, 'Little Denny.' That was her nickname for him. And he would just acknowledge her and say, 'Hi, Aunt Doris, thank you for being here,'" her son said.

Other survivors include another son, Robert, Jr.; seven grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Visitation will be from 2 to 6 p.m. Thursday in Anderson Memorial Chapel, 606 Townhall Drive, Romeoville. Services will begin at 10 a.m. Friday in the funeral home.

Roy Hassert's passing recalls an amazing era in Will County

What makes this country great is people like Roy Hassert willing to dedicate themselves to government. He stands head and shoulders above everyone else." (Judge Michael Orenic, Nov. 30, 1974, in The Herald News when Hassert retired as Will County Board chairman.)

When Roy Hassert handed over the gavel as county board chairman in 1974, his colleagues — composed of political friends and enemies — gave him a standing ovation.

That was more than a quarter century ago. The 89-year-old former Republican political powerhouse died last week. His funeral service was private.

But many of us still remember the fast-talking chairman, who sometimes sounded like an auctioneer as he tightly held the reins of county government and kept the dollars in the black. He ruled from the board chairman's office for a decade.

In those days, there was a frequent saying used to describe county government: If you want something done, call God or Roy Hassert, but God is difficult to get on the phone.

Some called Hassert a tyrant and a dictator. Others said he was the best thing that had ever happened to county government.

Fortunately, I got to cover the last few years of Hassert's administration. These were learning years for me as a young reporter. The chairman was amazing at times.

Although his party controlled the board, the Republicans were split. The majority were loyal to Hassert. But other younger Republicans followed orders from the county's Republican Central Committee chairman. However, there were some old-timer Democrats, whom Hassert could count upon at times in close board votes.

Each time the younger Republicans thought they had Hassert cornered on an issue, he would pull out some of his political magic that came from his vast knowledge of the law and political experience.

Of course, my role as reporter often placed me in an adversary position with the strong chairman. On one occasion, in which I had to ask some questions about a controversial issue, he labeled me "the vindictive little bastard," which got shortened by his friends to "the VLB."

During Hassert's final week in the chairman's seat in the fall of '74, I asked him for a statement about the end of the era. He replied that this newspaper had gotten rid of him with my reporting. But he reached across my notebook and crossed out my notes on what he had just said.

"Scratch that," he said, declining further comment. But I quoted him anyway.

Hassert

Hassert, who is now in his fifth term as a state representative, told me he was inspired by his uncle. As a kid, he and his cousins sometimes attended board meetings and watched the political wars on the board floor.

"It was amazing to watch him," Brent said.

Afterward, his uncle would take them to lunch. As they walked down the street to a restaurant, everyone seemed to know the chairman, Brent said.

"He seemed to command a respect from all," Brent added. "He is one of the reasons I got involved in politics."

After Brent got involved, he said his uncle gave him some solid political advice.

"He told me to be careful and to watch my back," Brent said. "He said your word is your word. Always keep your word."

After leaving the county board chairman's seat, Hassert remained as DuPage Township supervisor until 1981. He held that seat for 28 years.

Hassert outlived most of his political peers from both sides of the aisle. As a politician, he was blunt and colorful, controversial but honest, shrewd and wise, tight with the taxpayers' money and a much-respected leader.

As Judge Orenic said so many years ago, Roy Hassert did stand head and shoulders above most. He was the kind of man that has helped to make this country, this county and this community a good place to live.

Hassert was a good man, maybe even a great man.

The current Will County Board might want to consider hanging his portrait on the wall somewhere. He is worthy of that honor.

Tragic accident takes young life

SUN P 5 NOV 14 1984

Nine-year-old Andrew Hartz, 124 Grady dr., Bolingbrook, was pronounced dead on arrival at Edward Hospital after he was struck by a car near his home late Thursday afternoon, Nov. 8. It was a tragic end to a neighborhood football game.

According to Deputy Chief Ronald Chruszczyk of the Bolingbrook Police Department, the car which struck Andrew, as he was playing football in a neighbor's yard, was driven by Linda Beitler, 18, of Romeoville.

Miss Beitler reportedly was leaving a home at 139 Grady drive at approximately 4:36 p.m. when the accident occurred. Her car had been parked at the curb in front of the house.

Witnesses told police that when Miss Beitler started to pull away from the curb, a boy ran in front of her car.

Miss Beitler's car reportedly swerved to the right to miss the child, then travelled across the lawn between a tree and a mail box before striking Andrew, who was among a group of children playing football in a yard at 136 Grady dr., according to some of the witnesses at the scene.

Chruszczyk stated that investigators are trying to estimate the speed at which Miss Beitler's car was travelling in an effort to determine whether or not she will be charged. He stressed that the investigation is not complete, and investigators have not yet drawn any conclusions.

"We really don't know all the facts right now," he explained. "There are some discrepancies in the witnesses statements that we are still checking."

There were several witnesses at the scene, Chruszczyk said, including other children, three or four adults and Miss Beitler's boyfriend who was a passenger in the car.

Both Miss Beitler and her boyfriend reportedly were playing football with the children prior to the accident.

There have been no charges filed at this time, pending further investigation, Chruszczyk said.

No other children were injured in the accident.

Andrew was the son of James and Holly Hartz and was a fourth-grade challenge student at R.C. Hill school from Jamie McGee.

Andrew W. Hartz

Andrew W. Hartz, 9, of Bolingbrook, died Thursday, Nov. 8, 1984, near his home. He was born in Illinois on Sept. 22, 1975.

Andrew, a fourth grade student, attended the Challenge program for accelerated children at R. C. Hill Elementary School from Jamie McGee. He was in his third year of Tee-ball as a member of the Cowboys team and, for the past five years, has completed the summer reading program at the Bolingbrook Fountaindale Library. Andrew was a member of the St. Francis of Assisi Church, as well as of Boy Scout Pack 134, Den 1.

Survivors are his parents, James and Holly Hartz; his sister, Cathryn; his brother, Justin; his grandparents, Warren and Frances Cartier and Raymond and Viola Hartz.

Funeral services were held Monday from the Brookridge Funeral Home in Bolingbrook to the St. Francis of Assisi Church for Mass.

Memorials can be made to the Andrew W. Hartz Memorial Fund at the Heritage Bank or to the Jamie McGee School. Donations received will be used to purchase books.

Nine-year-old killed in yard

Met 84 Nov 15 1984
A 9-year-old Bolingbrook boy was killed by a car last week as he played in a front yard near his Grady Drive home.

Andrew Hartz of 124 Grady Drive was pronounced dead from injuries sustained in the accident at Edward Hospital in Naperville.

The accident occurred at 4:36 p.m.

According to witnesses, Linda Beitler, age 18, of 525 Dahlhart Drive, Romeoville had just pulled away from the curb in front of 139 Grady Drive when another child ran in front of her car, police say.

Witnesses say that she swerved to avoid that child, went off the road on to the lawn at 136 Grady Drive, where the car hit Andrew.

Preliminary investigations indicated that the car was not traveling at a high rate of speed when the accident happened, police say. All of the witnesses seemed to tell the same story, they add.

No charges or tickets have been issued, but the investigation is continuing, police officials say. Witnesses will be re-interviewed.

Andrew's distraught mother, Holly Hartz, also had to be taken to Edward for treatment after being told about the accident.

In lieu of flowers, Andrew's parents, Holly and James Hartz, have requested that donations be made to purchase new books for the Jamie McGee School library.

The Andrew Hartz Fund has been established at Heritage Bank of Bolingbrook by McGee principal Mike Silver.

"Mrs. Hartz requested that the books be purchased in lieu of flowers or mass cards because Andy was such an avid reader. He loved books, and he loved the library," says Silver.

Andrew transferred this year to Robert C. Hill School as a challenge student, but had been a McGee student, Silver explains.

"Everybody here knew Andy. He was just a super kid, a bright and happy child, an avid reader, a good student, never in trouble," adds Silver.

In addition to the library books, which will each contain a label identifying them as being bought in Andrew's memory, a sapling tree will be planted in the courtyard near McGee's library in the child's name, Silver says.

Andrew is the second Bolingbrook child to be killed by a car during the last two months. Local police are still searching for the hit-and-run driver who struck and killed 12-year-old Katherine Mittelstaedt as she and friends walked near Ill. Rt. 53 on Sept. 15.

Andrew W. Hartz, age 9, died Nov. 8 after a car struck him as he was playing in a front yard near his home on Grady Drive in Bolingbrook.

His parents are James and Holly Hartz.

Andrew was a fourth grade Challenge student at R.C. Hill in Romeoville from McGee school.

He was a member of Cub Pack #134, Den #1; a three-year member of the Cowboys T-Ball team; and participated in the summer reading program at Fountaindale Library the last five years.

An enthusiastic reader, the family requests, in lieu of flowers or other memorials, that contributions be made to the Andrew Hartz Memorial Fund set up at the Bolingbrook Heritage Bank to buy books for the McGee School library.

Other survivors include a sister, Kathryn; brother Justin; grandparents, Warren and Frances Cartier and Raymond and Viola Hartz; aunts, uncles and cousins.

Services were Monday from Brookridge Funeral Home with Mass at St. Francis of Assisi Church in Bolingbrook.

remember Andy Hartz week at School.

SUN p 28 Dec 19 1984

Jamie McGee principal Mike Silver remembers Andy Hartz as "extremely intelligent, a gifted child," a young friend who will be sorely missed.

The tragic death last week of 9-year-old Andy Hartz has left friends, teachers, classmates and neighbors stunned and saddened. "Depressed" is a word Silver uses.

Although Andy this year attended fourth grade Challenge classes at R.C. Hill, Silver remembers Andy as a Jamie McGee student for three years prior.

"He was one of those kids who never got into trouble," Silver recalls. He loved scouting, he hated seeing other kids fight, and he was sensitive to others' feelings, even at his young age, he adds.

It was Andy's quick intelligence that spurred Silver to start a memorial fund for him, to be used to buy children's books for the school's library.

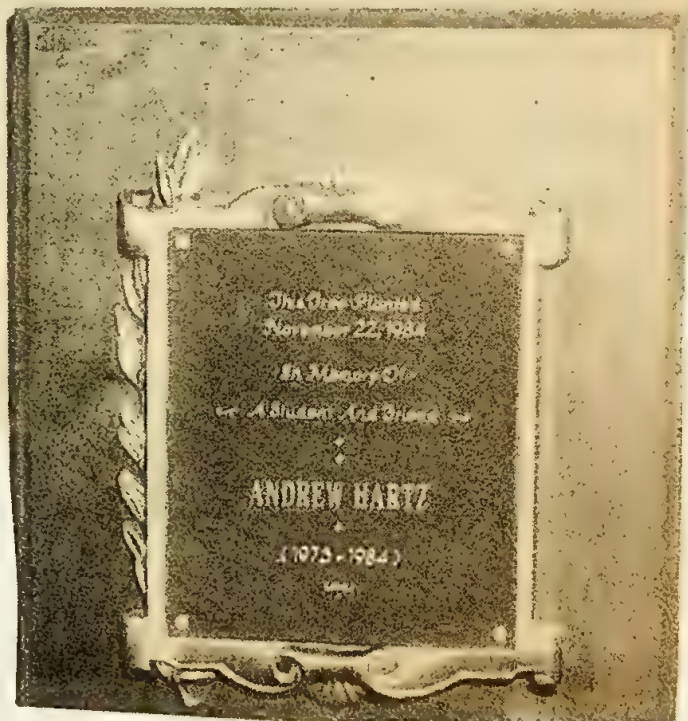

"He loved to read — he could spend hours in the library if we let him," Silver says.

Residents may remember Andy by donating to the Andrew Hartz Memorial Fund at Heritage Bank in Bolingbrook, Silver says, or by sending the donation to Jamie McGee school. The fund will be used exclusively to buy books, which will be specially marked before being placed on the shelves.

"I think it's a nice thing to remember him by," Silver says simply. He donated $100 himself to get the fund started.

The staff at R.C. Hill and that school's P.T.O. also have contributed to the memorial fund, and are encouraging parents in the community to do the same.

Jamie McGee faculty members also planned to plant a Colorado Blue Spruce this week, as a living memorial to Andy. The tree will be planted in the west courtyard overlooking the library, with a plaque nearby. The plaque will read: "This tree planted Nov. 22, 1984, in memory of a friend and student, Andrew Hartz, 1975-1984."

Memorial dedicated

As a memorial to young Andrew Hartz, the McGee/Hill school student killed in a car accident, more than $4,400 has been contributed.

On Thanksgiving day, family and friends planted a tree in a courtyard in Andrew's memory.

From the donations, says McGee school principal Mike Silver, books will be purchased for the school library. Andrew, a Challenge student, loved reading.

His parents thought it the best memorial. His parents also plan to add to the fund, in an account at Heritage Bank of Bolingbrook, each year.

The first book purchased from the fund was Andrew's favorite, "Santa's Favorite Story."

A memorial service was held at McGee School last week, including 25 of Andrew's friends and the Hartz family.

Service to honor past superintendent

By Tracey Lewis
STAFF WRITER

Friends and family will gather at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at St. Benedict's Episcopal Church, 909 Lily Cache Lane, to remember former Valley View School District Superintendent Ken Hermansen.

Although Hermansen passed away last year at his retirement home in Panama City Beach, Fla., a memorial service is finally being held for local friends and colleagues who knew him during his 35-year tenure in the school system.

Jim Szczepaniak, a 33-year veteran teacher at Romeville High School, said he is proud to have worked alongside a man who was "for the kids and for the people." Szczepaniak said he remembers when the Valley View School district was just an eight-room schoolhouse and Romeville High School was called Lockport West.

"Ken was very down to earth," Szczepaniak said. "He used to go to homes for a coffee klatsch and sit down on the floor or help out the custodians on a Saturday in jeans."

The service is being held not just to remember Hermansen, but to celebrate his impact on the school district. Szczepaniak is leading a fund-raising effort for the Kenneth L. Hermansen Memorial Fund, which is under the direction of the Valley View Educational Enrichment Foundation. Funds donated will go toward school projects in Hermansen's name.

Szczepaniak is also hopeful that the school board will consider a petition to rename the Valley View School after Hermansen for his tireless contributions to the district.

The memorial service will not be a sad occasion, but rather as Szczepaniak described it as "a sort of closure and a sort of opening." It will give old co-workers and compatriots an opportunity to renew friendships and to honor their dear friend. His family is flying in from Florida and California for the service.

For information on the memorial service or how to donate to the Valley View Educational Enrichment Foundation, call (815) 886-2700.

Celebrating Her Spirit

Joan Heiberger

February 4, 1935 ~ December 6, 2011

I Have A Place In Heaven

Please don't sing sad songs for me,

Forget your grief and fears,

For I am in a perfect place

Away from pain and tears

It's far away from hunger

And hurt and want and pride,

I have a place in Heaven

With the Master at my side.

My life on earth was very good,

As earthly life can go,

But Paradise is so much more

Than anyone can know.

My heart is filled with happiness

And sweet rejoicing, too.

To walk with God is perfect peace,

A joy forever new.

Do Not Stand by My Grave and Weep

By Mary E. Frye

Do not stand at my grave and weep

I am not there. I do not sleep.

I am a thousand winds that blow.

I am the diamond glints on snow.

I am the sunlight on ripened grain.

I am the gentle autumn rain.

When you awaken in the morning's hush

I am the swift uplifting rush of quiet white doves in circled flight.

I am the soft stars that shine at night.

Do not stand at my grave and cry;

I am not there, I did not die.

Marine killed in base accident called a 'fantastic young man'

SUN p 6 Feb 15, 2002

By Lauren B. Kraft
STAFF WRITER

Daniel Hudson's main ambition in life was to be a Marine. The Bolingbrook resident was one of the top ROTC students at Romeoville High School when he graduated in 1999.

But his military career came to a tragic end last week when he was accidentally killed at a Marine Corps base in California north of San Diego.

Marine Cpl. Hudson died Feb. 6 during a training exercise at Camp Pendleton with the 5th Battalion of the 11th Marine Artillery Regiment. At 5:50 p.m. in the India Training Area, a 900 Series five-ton truck with a M198 Howitzer in tow rolled over, killing Hudson and two other Marines, Cpl. Aaron Pinnett, 19, of Maine, and Cpl. Benjamin Worchel, 21, of Texas.

The cause of the accident is under investigation, according to Marine Corps officials.

Friends and classmates came from Florida, Arizona, Mississippi and Hawaii this week to be with Hudson's family and each other.

He was remembered as an "out-standing cadet" in the Romeoville ROTC program by Master Gunnery Sgt. Robert Arvin, Hudson's instructor.

"I couldn't begin to go over the number of awards he won," Arvin said.

Hudson advanced to captain of

“He was not only a motivator, he was a leader. He was someone a lot of people looked up to.”

Tanisha Gonzalez
CLASSMATE

the ROTC drill team his junior year, a position attained mostly by seniors. He served two years as the captain and won various awards during his four-year tenure with the team, Arvin said.

The outgoing young man was close to his brother, also a Marine. He made it known to his classmates and instructors that he would follow in his brother's footsteps.

"Dan always said as soon as he graduated he's going into the service," Arvin said.

"I have never met anybody more motivated to be a Marine," said Tanisha Gonzalez, a classmate who was mourning Hudson at the high school Tuesday.

Gonzalez, who was in the ROTC program with Hudson, rescheduled her college mid-term exams in Florida to return to Bolingbrook when she heard of Hudson's death.

She spoke fondly of his role in the ROTC program.

"He was not only a motivator, he was a leader," she said. "He was someone a lot of people looked up to."

Participants in the ROTC program were like a family, Gonzalez said.

"We had such a tight-knit group here. It was like a second family," she said. "I'm sure I can speak for everybody when I say that he was like a brother."

Hudson's likeable personality won classmates over, Gonzalez said.

"He was the life of the party," she said.

Arvin noticed the same qualities.

"He was just a fantastic young man," he said. "He was so full of life and he really enjoyed being in ROTC and on the drill team. He had one of those personalities that brings out the best in you. You never see him here at school without a smile on his face."

Hudson's body was to be returned to Bolingbrook this week. He will be buried at the Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery in Elwood.

Hudson's mother lives in Bolingbrook, but could not be reached for comment.

Funeral information was not available at time of publication.

The family, the Morland Hollands of Beaconridge, requested that no flowers be sent but that, in keeping with the spirit of help they have received, memorials be made to the Blood Research Fund. The address is 2600 Children's Plaza, Chicago, 60614.

The fund supports training of people to work with children who have cancers and diseases of the blood, and provides research equipment, says Dr. Allen Schwartz of Children's.

"Those folks are amazing. They have really had it hard since Larry was transferred here less than a year ago," Dr. Schwartz told The Met.

Community fund raising efforts to help the family with massive medical expenses exceeding insurance have in recent weeks collected $2,129 plus an as-yet unknown amount of mail contributions, an organizer of the drives said Monday. The money goes into the Larry Gene Holland Fund at Heritage Bank of Bolingbrook.

Larry, the Hollands' only child, was born Feb. 1, 1969. He was waked Monday night, and services were conducted Tuesday by the Rev. Paul Baldwin of Milwaukee at Barsi Funeral Home, Chicago. Burial was in Graceland Cemetery, Chicago.

Blood drive sputters, few donate at mobile

Met p 3 Dec 20 1973

Operators of the Bolingbrook Blood Assurance Program drive Monday were disappointed with the turnout, as fewer than 20 persons donated blood at a session which was geared for 50 or more.

The mobile collection team had nine beds set up in New Life Lutheran Church, but could have operated as well with three. Repeat donors turned up, but not the flocks of first-timers hoped for after recent interest in dedicating the December donation day to leukemia victim Larry Holland, 4½.

"Again, there were no public officials setting the example and exercising leadership in a visible but noncontroversial way," said one of the volunteers, who outnumbered the donors at times.

The program is designed to assure every Bolingbrook resident of blood if needed, if the village sustains its share of contributions to the Aurora Blood Bank. Credits from Aurora are transferable to any of a nationwide network of blood banks.

A temporarily depressed Wayne Horne, founder of the program now sponsored by the American Legion, said, "It is so easy this time of year for people to say, 'I don't have the time,' and put it off. Last winter, with the IC crash and two airplane crashes, there was a lot of public awareness. But it is the day to day needs that are the real problem."

Gail Prchal, Bolingbrook-Romeoville area service representative of the Aurora Blood Bank, glumly awaits donors.

Bolingbrook man is killed in crash

SUN p 1 July 24 1985

A Bolingbrook man was killed on Friday when he was thrown from his pick-up truck at 75th street and Greene road.

DuPage County Sheriff's police reported that the victim, Michael I. Herr, 35, 122 Balmoral drive, was driving east on 75th street at a high rate of speed, passing other eastbound vehicles.

According to reports, Herr evidently did not see another eastbound pick-up truck, driven by John W. Wolf, 27, of Woodstock, which was attempting a left turn onto northbound Greene road.

The Herr vehicle struck the Wolf truck, then went off the road into a deep ditch on the north side of the road. Police say the front end of the pick-up dug into the ditch, and then began to tumble end-over-end, then side-over-side for 212 feet.

About 24 feet before coming to a rest on its roof, Heer, who was not wearing his seatbelt, was thrown from the cab, police say.

The accident happened at 3:38 p.m. The DuPage County Coroner's office said that Herr was taken to Edward Hospital in Naperville where he died at 5:40 p.m. while in surgery.

Wolf was ticketed for driving with a suspended license.

Police probe circumstances of fatal crash

Did a high-speed prank result in the deaths of two Bolingbrook teens?

That is something investigators will have to assess as they try to reconstruct the circumstances of a Dec. 21 fatal car crash that claimed the lives of two and left a third critically injured on North Frontage Road in Bolingbrook.

According to Bolingbrook police spokesman Sgt. Don Malloy, a final report could take weeks to complete because specialists in accident-scene reconstruction must examine several aspects of the incident.

"The speeds involved and the number of cars involved make it difficult," said Malloy.

Jerry D. "J.D." Larrison, 16, and Vincent M. Hawking, 17, were both pronounced dead at the scene. Both were students at Bolingbrook High School.

Timothy J. Borja, 17, a student at Joliet Catholic Academy and a resident of Bolingbrook, was airlifted to Good Samaritan Hospital in Downers Grove. A hospital spokesman said Borja was upgraded from critical condition to good condition Dec. 27 and was expected to be released by Dec. 29.

However, several people who were either acquaintances of some of those involved in the crash or onlookers who watched in horror as police and rescue crews too late to steer his vehicle back into the right lane, but Borja's car — headed west — collided with Larrison's.

The impact sent a portion of the car driven by Larrison over a chain-link fence onto the Stevenson Expressway.

Police said the third vehicle swerved off the road onto a grass shoulder to avoid the collision, and the occupants — two teen-age girls who were acquaintances of Hawking and Larrison — were uninjured.

According to a friend of the two girls in the third car — both students at Bolingbrook High School — all four had taken the day off school.

"They ditched on Friday," said the girl, who also asked not to be identified.

Dec. 21 was the last day of school for Bolingbrook High School prior to the two-week holiday vacation.

The acquaintance also said one of the female occupants of the third car was a close friend of Hawking.

The two cars were "going pretty fast," said the friend.

"We are looking at some different scenarios at this time," said Malloy. "We've taken several statements."

Joint visitation for Larrison and Hawking took place Dec. 23 at Bolingbrook-McCauley Funeral Home on Boughton Road.

Bolingbrook residents Laura Larson (left) and Crystal Colbertson comfort one another Dec. 23 at a memorial put up after a fatal car crash killed two of their friends, Vinny Hawkings and J.D. Larrison. The accident happened on the north side of Frontage Road near the Stevenson Expressway and Illinois Route 53 in Bolingbrook.

All police will currently say is that the car driven by Borja collided with a car driven by Larrison, in which Hawking was a passenger, on North Frontage Road near Roland Machinery, 220 E. North Frontage Road.

Apparently, Larrison's vehicle was headed east on Frontage Road when he attempted to pass another vehicle also traveling east on the two-lane road.

Larrison apparently tried 55 miles an hour," he said.

The speed limit on Frontage Road is 45 miles per hour.

"With the extent of the damage to the cars involved, it is amazing he (Borja) is still alive," said the man.

Frontage Road was closed for approximately two hours, and some lanes of the Stevenson Expressway adjacent to Frontage Road also were closed because of accident debris.

struggled to untangle the damage suggest that careless driving may have caused the fatal crash.

A man who worked at a nearby business said that when he arrived on the scene shortly after the collision at 1 p.m., it was unclear what had happened based on the horrific condition of the vehicles.

"I have never seen that type of damage to cars in my life. There is no way they could have been traveling less than

Community gives support to family after crib death

JACK D. HANGER

Arrangements by Bolingbrook-McCauley Funeral Chapel & Crematorium, 630-759-1212.

Crib death, Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS), is the number one cause of death for babies aged one week to one year. In the Bolingbrook area alone in the last few months, at least four babies have been the victims of the mysterious killer, the only symptom of which is the death itself.

One of those Bolingbrook babies was four-month-old Eric Herzog, whose parents and grandparents both have been well known in the community for several years through their associations in sports groups and Cub Scouts. Thanks to the support of friends, sympathetic neighbors they hadn't even met, the Loyola University Hospital and the Chicago Chapter of the National SIDS Foundation, the Herzog family is learning to cope with its loss.

SIDS has no medical symptoms and is neither predictable nor preventable, according to Mary Jo Kleinhenz, a Bolingbrook resident and President of the Chicago Chapter of the SIDS foundation. She says research can tell people what SIDS is not caused by, but not what it is caused by.

All parents blame themselves like she did when her baby died, she said. They think that if they had just done something different the baby would have lived — which is not true. This guilt is the worst of the parents' grief, according to Kleinhenz. Public knowledge helps par-deal with this unfounded guilt and chapter holds coffees for parents to them deal with it and share their thoughts.

Elaine Herzog, Eric's paternal grandmother, feels the need to keep busy and talk about the baby. "I can't close my eyes without seeing his smiling face," she says. By not talking about him "we are not going to wipe him out of anyone's heart or memory," she comments.

People have been so supportive of the family, she says, it has "rocked me back on my heels." The day of the funeral Camelot Foods on Frontage Road sent a tray of lunch meat over.

Neighbors came in and "organized a meal around us." One friend commented that the spread of food was like the story of the loaves and fishes in the Bible. What one person did not provide for the lunch; another person did.

Research is being conducted at Loyola University Hospital in Maywood on SIDS. For a donation of $200 or more, a baby's name will be added to a brass memorial plaque at the hospital. Eric's parents wanted their son's name included. Hearing about the parental wish, the Athletic Booster Club at Bolingbrook High School wanted to make the contribution because of the long-time association of the Herzog family with various sports in Bolingbrook. When Booster Club members learned that the organization by-law limit funds to direct use for athletic programs, members Carol Applebaugh and Nancy Hunt telephoned enough people in the club to raise $195 in personal donations.

One booster put up a small sign with a donation can where he worked and collected another $100. People that the Herzogs have never heard of sent small checks to defray the cost of the memorial.

Because of the support of the SIDS Foundation and the kindness of the people in Bolingbrook, Elaine Herzog said she could talk all day and still not thank all the people who have been so nice to them. She and Eric's family are learning to cope.

Evelyn Hood, the last surviving faculty member of the original group of teachers at Valley View School, recently died at age 95.

Hood, whose funeral was held Nov. 16 at Pearce Funeral Home in Marshall, taught at the school when it was the only building in the old Valley View School District 96, said her daughter, Sharon Guilfoyle. Guilfoyle said her mother taught reading and art at the school.

After her retirement from Valley View, Hood taught for 20 years in Salem, Ark., retiring at the age of 82. Her colleagues included well-known Valley View names such as Eileen Ward, Irene King, Kenneth Hermansen and John Lukancic.

Russ Fletcher, director of communications for Valley View School District 365U, said in a news release that Hood was fondly remembered.

"When I reached John Lukancic today, he recounted a story of when A. Vito Martinez (originally West View) Middle School was opened in 1966," Fletcher said. "The teachers moved into the building when the construction was only half-completed. Lukancic remembers that Mrs. Hood would chase after the construction workers salvaging construction scraps that she would then use for art projects."

Memorials may be directed to the Valley View Educational Enrichment Foundation, P.O. Box 1608, Bolingbrook, IL 60440; or Marshall Monument, P.O. Box 72, Marshall, IL 62411.

William, Alexander Harris

William Alexander Harris, age 21 of Bolingbrook,

IL passed away peacefully, Tuesday, April 9, 2019 at Ann and Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital of Chicago, surrounded by the love of his family. He was born October 25, 1997 in Voorhees, NJ to his beloved parents, Joseph and Jeanette Harris. Loving brother of Patrick J. Harris. Dearest grandson of Edward and Anita Wenzke of Egg Harbor Twp. NJ, and the late Alvin and Regina Harris. Loving nephew of Paul (Heidi) Wenzke, Mary McCormick, Beth (the late James) McGovern, Peter (Eleanor) Wenzke, Al (Nancy) Harris, Elizabeth (the late James) Curtin, David (Jodi) Harris, Robert (Jeannie) Harris, and Regina Harris (David Bliss). Adored cousin of many. William was our real-life Incredible Hulk. He was always happy-go-lucky in spite of a 2.5 year treatment course for leukemia, multiple episodes of respiratory failure and ventilator dependency, and most recently multisystem organ failure. He was never without a smile and was happiest when those around him were happy. He simply loved life and loved his family and friends. Ocean City, NJ was a special place for him, especially when he was eating ice cream and cheese puffs on the beach! William loved his once in a lifetime Make-a-Wish trip to Disney World over Christmas 2013 where he met his Toy Story heroes. Special Olympic basketball was his favorite hobby and he was lucky enough to win a gold medal with his team in his rookie year! His peer helpers, teacher, school friends, and nurses will always hold a special place in his heart, as they ensured that his days were meaningful and filled with memorable experiences. William especially enjoyed his religious education time through the REACH program at St. Raphael parish. He always felt surrounded by love and truly impacted all of those who touched his life in so many ways. We would like to thank the doctors, nurses, respiratory therapists, and the entire PICU staff at Ann and Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital for the incredible care provided to William during our lengthy stays. William will never be forgotten. He was a true superhero and warrior in all aspects of his life and was loved by so many. He was an angel on earth who modeled kindness, compassion, and harmony. In William's honor, let there be peace on earth and let it begin with each of us. Memorial donations to off-set medical expenses may be sent to Friedrich-Jones Funeral Home. Donation of flowers will be made to Connections Transition Services, the program that William attended that fosters job skill development for young adults with disabilities. Visitation: Sunday, April 14th 2:00-6:00 PM at Friedrich-Jones Funeral Home & Cremation Services, 44 S. Mill St., Naperville, IL 60540. Wife shot by husband

A Bolingbrook man was arrested last Friday for murder following the shooting death of his wife.

Eric Illgen, 40, of 132 Seabury Road, remained in Will County Jail on $1 million bond after he was arraigned on Saturday.

At 8 p.m. on April 14, police responded to a call of a shooting, apparently made by one of the children of the couple, and found Linda Illgen, 40, dead from a single gunshot wound to the head.

According to police, the 10- and 12-year-old children, who were in another part of the home at the time of the shooting, were unharmed.

One of the children called the police and said, "I think my daddy just shot my mommy."

Police spokesman Richard Kuntz said the children did not report any struggle prior to the single shot that was fired.

The cause of the shooting has not yet been determined, and police said the investigation is continuing.

Police said Eric Illgen is a local realtor who did not have any history of problems except an incident in 1986 when police were called to the home about a domestic disturbance. No charges were filed as a result of that incident.

The two children are in the custody of their grandparents, Linda Illgen's parents.

Linda was a part-time secretary at DuPage Township, and officials said she was at work on Friday morning.

Township director Betty Bailey, for whom Linda worked, set up a memorial fund savings account for the two children. Donations are being accepted in the name of Rose Bates, the children's grandmother, at Midwest Savings and Loan in the Commons shopping center on Rt. 53 near I-55.

Eric Illgen's bail was set at $1 million after he appeared before Will County Circuit Judge Angelo Pistilli on April 15.

Friends, co-workers saw

MeT p 4 Sept 28 1989

Illgen tragedy coming

"Linda Illgen worked for DuPage Township as a part-time secretary, 20 hours per week, for about a year before her death," says Betty Bailey, administrator for the township.

"I knew her homelife was not good. I knew it was an explosive situation. I remember feeling so helpless when she died. Here she was, working for an agency that is supposed to help people, and we couldn't help her. We failed. We had the couple in marital counseling, but Eric dropped out," says Bailey.

Sept. 18-22, Eric Illgen was on trial for his wife's murder. Dr. Bloom, who did the autopsy on Linda Illgen, said that aside from the gunshot wound that caused her death, he noticed that she had very sparse hair for a woman her age.

Prosecuting attorney Chuck Thomas theorized that the tension of Linda's troubled 19-year marriage caused the sparse hair growth. "Yes, that's possible," said Bloom.

Carol Svarz, a friend who knew the Illgens for 20 years testified to several instances of both physical violence and threats made by Illgen against his wife over the course of their marriage. She said that Linda had worn a wig for eighteen years.

Betty Bailey says that Linda Illgen, who was 41, was very quiet and soft-spoken and that she often brought her two daughters to work with her. The two daughters are eleven and nine.

"They are delightful children, attractive, very polite, with a sweet disposition. They were almost too good."

"I was aware that Eric Illgen had made death threats against his wife, against his daughters, and that he said he would shoot himself. I always thought he would stop short of killing himself."

"I didn't know what to do (to prevent the tragedy) then or even now. I knew he had all those guns — even though the family was in dire straits."

"I went with the two daughters and police to retrieve some clothing from the house after Linda's death. One little girl kept asking for her doll."

"The officer told her it was needed as evidence. Later I found out it had been covered with blood and the officer didn't want to hurt the girl further by telling her."

A memorial fund savings account has been set up for Linda Illgen's two daughters at Midwest Savings and Loan. Donations will be accepted in the name of Rose Bates, the girls' maternal grandmother.

The two girls are staying with their grandparents. Bailey characterizes the grandparents as "very warm, very loving and down-to-earth. Their first concern was to give the girls a normal life."

Husband murder trial

overturned by appellate

Friends of the late Linda Illgen of Bolingbrook were shocked to learn this week, several weeks after the fact, that her husband, Eric Illgen, can get a new trial after the appellate court overturned his murder conviction for killing his wife in April of 1989.

The justices of the Third District Appellate Court, located in Ottawa, ruled that testimony about a history of prior abuse of the wife by her husband should not have been admitted at the original trial, and that the prosecution had not proved beyond a reasonable doubt that Eric Illgen had deliberately murdered his wife.

Linda Illgen died while sitting on the couch in her family room watching TV at the Illgen home on Seabury, off Pinecrest Road in Bolingbrook. She had been shot.

The Illgen's two daughters had been sent into a bedroom by their mother while their father was handling a gun.

Eric Illgen was the only witness for the defense and told the court that he did not remember anything about shooting his wife, but did acknowledge that he heard a shot while handling the gun.

One of the daughters phoned police who found Linda Illgen in a pool of blood on the couch.

Eric Illgen had been sentenced to 30 years in prison, where he is still, pending the appeal being heard by the state Supreme Court.

The two girls are living with their maternal grandparents.

Shock of the death of Linda Illgen prompted formation of a local battered woman hotline.

Bolingbrook man dies at Village Picnic

By Lauren B. Kraft
STAFF WRITER

A Bolingbrook man died around 5:30 p.m. Sunday from a heart attack he suffered while working a booth at the Bolingbrook Village Picnic.

Arthur "Butch" Jahnsen, 61, fell ill while selling doughnuts for Divine Shepherd Lutheran Church, where he was congregation president.

Days away from his retirement from Chicago Backflow Inc., Jahnsen was raising money at the booth for Christ Lutheran Academy in Plainfield. His daughter Jeanette Marcellis said he volunteered much of his time to the church.

"He was the kind of person who thought about others before himself," said Marcellis, speaking for the family, which includes her mother Marjorie, to whom Jahnsen was married 36 years, and Marcellis' sisters Jacki Sperka and Jessica Mehnert.

Jahnsen, a 29-year resident of Bolingbrook, was always involved in his church and was nicknamed "Betty Crocker" by the family because of his baking skills.

"He attended the first service at Divine Shepherd Lutheran Church when it began at Jane Addams Middle School," Marcellis said. "He was involved in the building of the new church on Lily Cache Lane and became president of the congregation two years ago.

"He will always be remembered and loved and his faith will stay with everyone he met."

Funeral services are 10:30 a.m. today at Divine Shepherd Lutheran Church at 985 W. Lily Cache Lane in Bolingbrook.

Friends and family bid farewell

By Lauren B. Kraft
STAFF WRITER

In December, Bob Jahn made a list of things he wanted to do before he died.

True to form, he put family and wrestling above everything else. Bob wanted to see his daughter, Hannah, dance in her recital. He wanted two of his sons to wrestle on the same team. He wanted to take a family trip and get some things done around the house. He also listed all the people he wanted to see again.

When Bob Jahn died Monday at home after a nearly yearlong battle with stomach cancer, he had checked everything off his list and more.

The longtime Bolingbrook resident and his wife, Donna, were known for their dedication to youth sports and community activities. Both parents coached any team that needed coaching, but wrestling was Bob Jahn's true love. An accomplished wrestler himself — he had been a state-ranked wrestler in high school who was unable to finish his senior year season because of an injury — Bob coached at Bolingbrook High School and Humphrey Middle School. Last year, the wrestling room at Humphrey was dedicated to and named after him.

"He was a great coach. He was an inspirational kind of guy," said John Sparlin, an assistant principal at Bolingbrook High School who coached with Bob at Humphrey. "As a coach, he cared about the kids — I think all coaches do — but he took it a step beyond.

"He gave the kids a lot of opportunities they never would have had if they had a different coach."

Bob wore his pride for all his wrestlers on his sleeve, and his sons showed the benefits of his coaching in their records. Daughter Hannah pursued dance.

The oldest son, Michael, wrestled at the collegiate level. Kyle, a senior at Bolingbrook High School, won the state championship in wrestling this year. Ryan, a freshman at Bolingbrook High School, won the state championships in seventh and eighth grades.

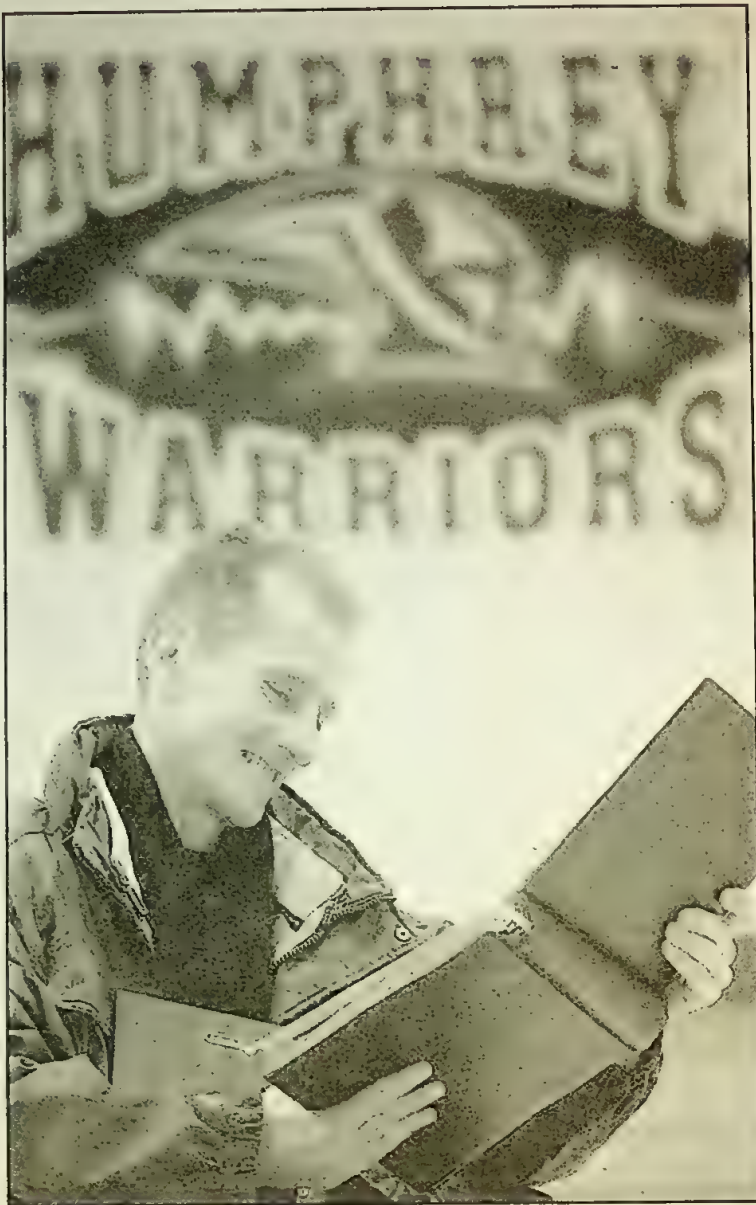

Last weekend, Kyle Jahn took eighth place in the national competition in Cleveland. He and Michael kept in constant contact with their parents during the competition, calling in the outcomes of many of the matches.

The boys were near home when their father died and were able to call a final time to say goodbye.

"He knew they were close and that we were all OK," said Donna, who was lying with Bob that morning. She said she thought Bob would keep hanging on if he knew people were around to see him; it was in his character.

In his last weeks, Bob was surrounded by friends and family. At least 50 people spent the night at the Jahn home a few weeks ago, thinking that it may be his last weekend.

But Bob had some fight left in him,

Donna said.

"We decided that Bob wasn't going to leave yet," she said. "On Sunday, we kicked them all out and made them go to school. They weren't too happy about that."

"I think over the past few weeks, as people came to say goodbye, it became apparent how many lives he touched as a coach or as a parent who took an interest in kids in the community," said Mike Lawler, a family friend. "People would come by the house, or kids could come by the house who were grown now ... and you would see him whispering in their ear or whispering softly to them and giving them one last piece of advice."

During the nights people stayed over, Donna was handing out pillows and dishing up food that friends had brought over.

"She is blowing me away with how strong she is," Lawler said.

Donna and Bob were a team, friends say.

"They were just such a complement to each other," said Andrea Mebane, a family friend. "She just pulled out all the stops to let him

'All-around good kid' dies in car crash

by Jane Lelugas

The first day of spring was marred, Thursday morning, for the friends and family of Nicole Juster. The 16-year-old Bolingbrook High School sophomore was killed when her car struck a tree as she and four friends were on their way to school.

Miss Juster and the others in the car, all BHS students, were rushed to Edward Hospital shortly after 8 a.m. following the one-car accident on Lee lane near Plymouth lane. Miss Juster was pronounced dead at the hospital. Three of the girls, 16-year-old Michelle Kehoe, Julie Banicki, 14, and Roberta Bonner, 15, were hospitalized after the incident. Miss Kehoe has been released, while Miss Banicki and Miss Bonner were listed in good condition on Tuesday at Edward Hospital. The fourth passenger, 17-year-old Michelle Banicki, was treated and then released.

Police said the mid-sized Ford driven by Miss Juster was traveling west on Lee lane at a high rate of speed when it left the road near Plymouth lane and struck the tree head-on on the driver's side. All the girls in the car were wearing seat belts, which police officials credited with saving the lives of the passengers.

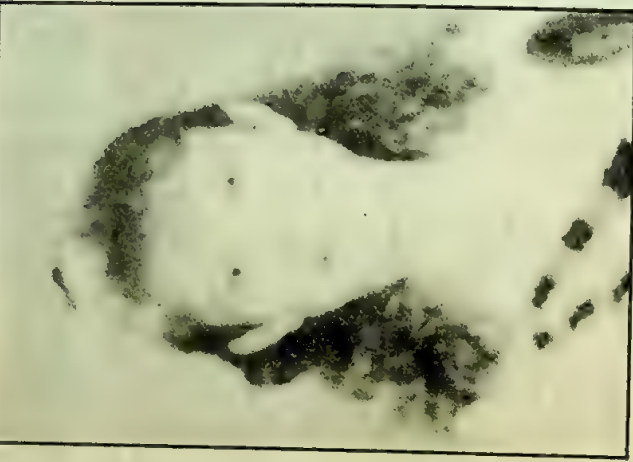

Many students knew of the accident when classes began, and some had even seen the crash, according to BHS Principal Everette Green. The school's crisis intervention team — made up of administrators, deans, counselors, a school social worker, psychologist, and trained teachers — was set up immediately to work individually and with small groups of students.

At about 10:45 a.m., when the an-

Green said follow-up counseling will continue over the next few weeks for students who are having a lot of difficulty accepting the girl's death.

"Nicole was a pommer (pom-pon). She was pretty popular and had a sizable number of friends," said Green. "Like all poms, academics were a big thing for her. She was a good student and maintained a 3.0 grade point average."

The pom-pon squad Miss Juster was a member of recently won the state championship for the third straight year at a competition at Thornwood High School. An honor student at BHS, Miss Juster was also active in student government and worked on the yearbook committee. She recently began working at the Family Square Restaurant, where her mother, Sharon, is the hostess and manager.

"Nicole was one of those all-around good kids," said Green. "One of my faculty members said to me, 'I wish we could have a whole school full of Nicoles.'"

Green said students were allowed to attend the funeral service held at noon, Monday, at New Life Lutheran Church. Visitation was Sunday, from 2 to 9 p.m. at Brook-Ridge Funeral Home in Bolingbrook. Interment was at Clarendon Hills Cemetery in West-

Nicole D. Juster
SUN p 26 Mar 27 1991

Nicole D. Juster, 16, died Thursday, March 21, 1991, at Edward Hospital in Naperville. She was born Jan. 15, 1975, in Hinsdale, and lived in Bolingbrook all her life.

Miss Juster was a sophomore at Bolingbrook High School, where she was an honor student, a pompon girl, a member of the year book committee and a member of student government. She attended grade school at North View School. She was employed at Family Square Restaurant.

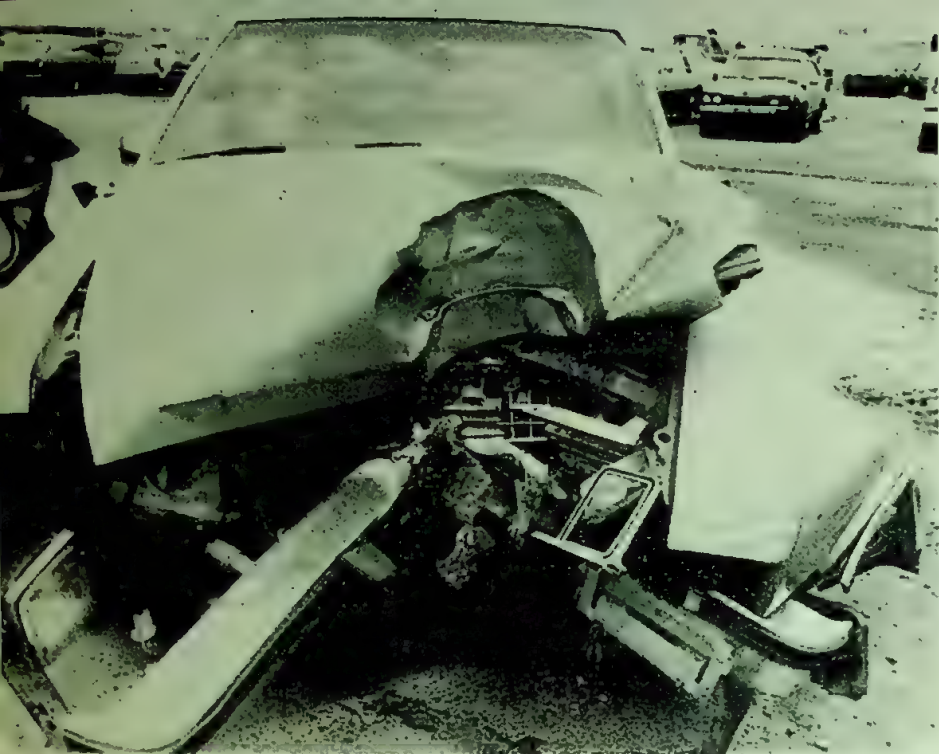

She is survived by her parents, Harold and Sharon (nee Littauer); a brother, Richard (Cynthia); her grandmother, Mildred Bloom; aunts and uncle, Virginia Smith and Jacob (Marilyn) Kaleel; a niece, Ashley; and many friends.

Visitation was held Sunday and Monday, March 24 and 25, at Brook-Ridge Funeral Home in Bolingbrook. Funeral services were held Monday, March 25, at New Life Lutheran Church in Bolingbrook, with Pastor Harold Brown officiating. Interment followed immediately at Clarendon Hills Cemetery in Westmont.

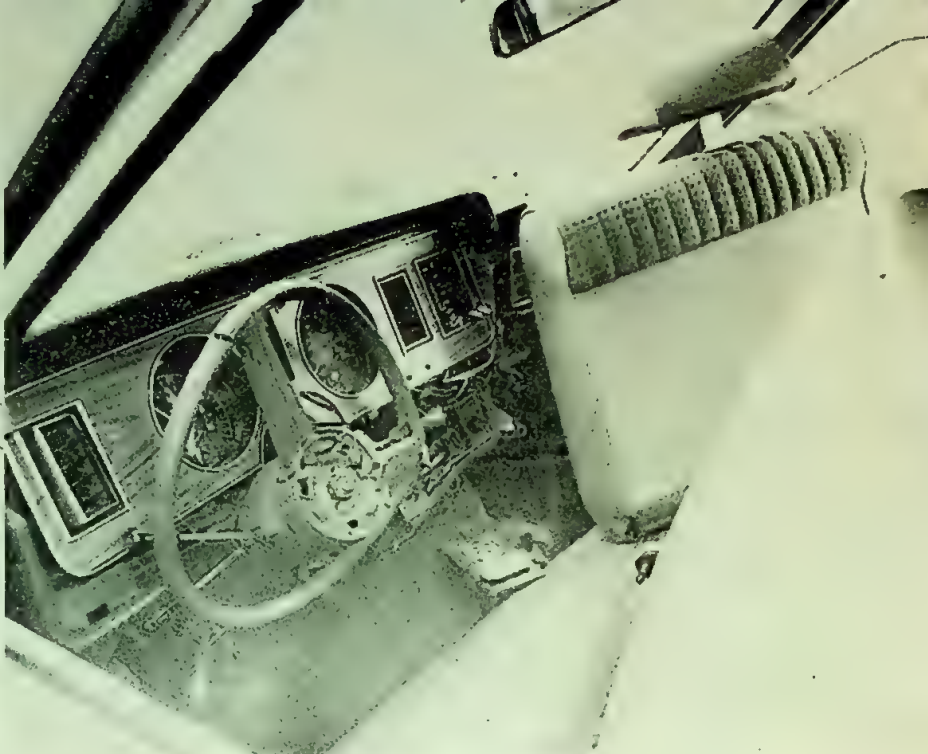

"One of my faculty members said to me, 'I wish we could have a whole school full of Nicoles.'"

BHS principal Everette Green

ouncement of Miss Juster's death was made, Green said about 75 to 100 students came down to the library to be with their friends and meet with counselors. Some students called home, and were allowed to leave with parental permission. Several local ministers and the police crisis intervention team came that afternoon to help those who remained at school.

This car, carrying five high school girls, crashed into a tree, killing the driver...

...the force of the impact buckled the drivers seat and pinned the 16-year-old pom pon squad member against the steering wheel.

Teen death, second year in a row, shocks BHS

Spring is the time for youth. But the youthful restlessness brought on by last Thursday's balmy temperatures ended tragically with the death of 16-year-old Nicole Juster.

Juster, who had received her license just a month earlier, was killed when she lost control of her vehicle on Lee Lane on the way to Bolingbrook High School and struck a tree. Four other high school girls in the car were also injured.

Michelle Kehoe, 15, and Michelle Banicki, 17, were treated and released from Edward Hospital, while Julie Banicki, 14, and Roberta Bonner, 15, were both listed in good condition as of this Tuesday and were expected to be released sometime this week.

"We were all in a good mood because we could get into the car without having to wear a jacket," recalls Michelle Banicki. "The windows were open because it was a beautiful day." They had stopped at McDonald's on the way from their eastside homes to the school west of Rt. 53.

A Bolingbrook sophomore and a member of the junior varsity pom pon squad, Juster apparently was speeding down the curving road when she swerved to avoid a school bus and a parked car.

Bolingbrook police say her vehicle hit the curb, went airborne and hit a one-foot diameter tree. The vehicle spun around and laid to rest on the north side of the street. The tree was uprooted and later removed. Juster died instantly.

Julie Banicki, who says she is the only passenger who remembers the accident, was riding in the front seat beside Juster.

"SHE KNEW HOW TO drive, but she was driving kind of fast," Julie Banicki explains, "but just a little."

When she recovered from the shock of the accident, she tried to open the door of the 1979 Ford Futura, but couldn't because her right arm was broken. Using her other arm she pulled herself and three friends from the vehicle, but there was nothing she could do about her friend Nicole. By that time, witnesses had called authorities for help.

"I pulled the three out and everyone was telling me Nicole was dead, but I didn't want to believe them," Julie Banicki remembers. "When they did get Nicole out, they covered my face because they didn't want me to see it."

The tragedy stunned the high school, which called in its team of crisis counselors when the news was announced over the address system. Juster was considered "popular and liked by everybody." The death, coming nearly one year to the day of the shocking suicide of student Nicole Page at BHS, astonished friends and family who crowded into Brook-Ridge funeral home last Sunday. At Monday's funeral, to which high schoolers were bused by the school district if they wished, people packed the aisles and stood in the back of New Life Lutheran Church. Nearly one hundred vehicles followed the procession which drove past Juster's schools, North View Elementary and B.J. Ward middle school, and her home on Olympic Drive on their way to Clarendon Hills Cemetery.

Nicole Juster, a popular, energetic high school sophomore who had just turned 16 and gotten her driver's license.

Friends from school had packed the casket of the yearbook staffer with mementos, including pictures, cards, jewelry, even balloons, which were all buried with her. Her teenage friends were pallbearers and her pom pon teammates sang "Friends Are Friends Forever" at the funeral.

THE HIGH SCHOOLER is the daughter of Sharon and Harold Juster. Her mother is well known in the community as the lady who greets people at the door of Family Square Restaurant. Her father is an over-the-road trucker and her brother, Richard, a member of the armed forces, had just returned from the Persian Gulf.

Friends say she was spunky and full of life.

"She was energetic and everyone loved her," Bonner said from her hospital bed Tuesday. "She was really good friends with everybody."

But it may have been that youthful energy, exacerbated by the irrepressible urges of summer-like weather that led to tragedy.

Police say Juster was traveling at speeds between 45 and 61 m.p.h., based on impact data. One witness told police that the vehicle was swerving down the street and the girls were "playing" with the car.

Juster rounded a turn on Lee Lane near Plymouth and was veering into the left lane. As an empty school bus was coming in the opposite direction slowed down, Juster swerved to the right to avoid it. She swerved as the road was straightening out after the curve and couldn't pull the vehicle back again. The vehicle, which was never braked, hit the tree head-on as it flew off the curb.

"They were exceeding the critical speed of that curve," explains Glenn Erickson, the investigating officer. "She was going so fast that the centrifugal force actually pulled the vehicle back into the tree."

Erickson says that Juster and Julie Banicki, who were sitting in the front seat, had their seatbelts on. However, the impact of the vehicle was so forceful that Juster's seat bowed forward and she was crushed by the steering wheel. She was not thrown from the car.

Although the cause of death will not be officially established after a DuPage County coroner's inquest, it is believed that Juster died of spinal injuries.

"SEAT BELTS ARE wonderful things," says Erickson, "but they have a limit."

None of the girls in the back seat was wearing a seat belt, according to one of the passengers.

dent, with a broken leg, sprained ankle and multiple lacerations. Michelle Banicki, who was the first to leave the hospital last Thursday, suffered three broken fingers and had eight stitches on her head. Julie Banicki, Michelle's sister, was still in the hospital Tuesday after having surgery on her arm, which was broken. Roberta Bonner was expected to be released sometime this week, but she will have to wear a back brace for at least three months. She also suffered a slight concussion and amnesia.

Residents in the Lee Land neighborhood have long complained that their street leading to the high school is a "speedway" and that something like this was bound to happen. Police say if Juster had lived, she would have been charged with reckless driving.

"Almost every time the weather gets warm you can hear the cars screeching up and down the street," says Cathy Fregeau, who lives next door to where the accident happened. "At that time of day there are a lot of kids out there waiting for a bus to pick them up."

Fregeau says a petition was presented to the village a few years ago to place speed bumps on the street, but the police nixed that proposal because of the damage that could be done to squad cars.

ONE POLICE OFFICIAL says he was not aware of the petition or that the area was a zone of frequent speeders. Police say they would try to address the complaints of the residents.

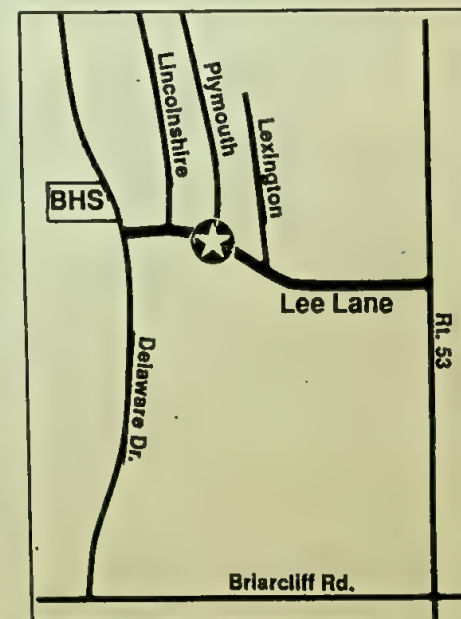

"Yes, this area is a concern and we are doing everything we can to prevent something like this from happening again," says police chief Richard Kuntz.

Nicole Juster, who turned 16 on Jan. 15, Bolingbrook, died on Thursday, March 21. Juster attended North View Elementary School, B. J. Ward Middle School and was a sophomore honor student at Bolingbrook High School where she was a member of the junior varsity Pom Pon Squad, on the yearbook and the student government committee. She is survived by her parents, Harold and Sharon (nee Littauer) Juster.

one brother, Richard (Cynthia), grandmother, Mildred Bloom; aunt, Virginia Smith; uncle, Jacob (Marilyn) Kaeel; niece, Ashley Juster, and many friends. Funeral services were arranged through Brook-Ridge Funeral Home with visitation funeral Sunday till Monday, March 25, at New Life Lutheran Church. Interment was at Clarendon Hills Cemetery in Westmont.

Her friends, meanwhile, only have memories.

"She was one of my first friends when I moved to town," says Michelle Banicki. "She was somebody very special. She had something about her. When people looked at her, they automatically liked her."

Lee Lane off Route 53 (at Realty World) is a popular route for high schoolers to Bolingbrook High School. An unusual road, Lee has broad, treed medians near the state highway, then curves to Delaware Drive, off which is the high school. Some residents say Lee Lane is an all too attractive speedway for young drivers. The fatal accident site is marked.

Romeoville and Bolingbrook officials were expected to ask the Will County state's attorney to file charges against Kenneth Anderson, 23, the Bolingbrook resident who crashed into the rear of another vehicle last Sunday night, killing a passenger in the other car, as well as injuring himself and two other people.

Felix Jose, 21, also of Bolingbrook, was killed in a fiery crash on Rt. 53 at the I-55 stop light after Anderson allegedly barreled his Mustang into the vehicle after a brief, high-speed car chase through Romeoville and Bolingbrook.

Anderson, who was upgraded from critical to serious condition Monday, could face wreckless homicide, drunken driving, speeding, evading a police officer, and going through a red light, among other charges.

The driver of the vehicle that was sitting at the light at the intersection waiting for it to change at 11:30 p.m., Michelle Seymore, age 19, and another passenger, Estavan Felix, 18, were as injured in the accident and taken to St. Joseph's Medical Center.

Estavan Felix was transferred to Loyola Medical Medical Center for treatment of burns. Seymore was treated and released.

Three Bolingbrook police officers, who arrived first on the scene, were injured

Romeoville police officer Dave Darguzis first clocked Anderson going 60 m.p.h. in the 40 m.p.h. zone along Joliet Road near Honeytree Street in Romeoville.

"He had to wait a little while for traffic to clear before he could pull out onto Joliet Road," explains Romeoville deputy police chief Andrew Barto. "He finally started to catch up to Andrew's vehicle at the intersection of Rt. 53 and Joliet Road."

When Darguzis put on his flashing lights to indicate that Anderson should pull over, Anderson allegedly sped around the vehicles waiting to turn left at the spotlight and turned north on Rt. 53 going through a red light. Again, the officer had to wait to make sure traffic wasn't coming, according to police, before he could ensue.

In the meantime, Darguzis radioed Bolingbrook police to tell them a suspect was trying to evade police and heading into Bolingbrook.

By the time Darguzis caught up to Anderson's car, it was in flames.

"He was at least a quarter-mile behind Anderson," adds Barto. "He never got close to him."

A trust fund has been established at Heritage Bank to assist the family of Karri Johnson, 4. Karri would live in Bolingbrook if she were not confined to the pediatric ward of Loyola University Medical Center.

As a result of a car accident in November, 1980, Karri is a quadriplegic. In addition to medical expenses and the financial drain of daily visits to Karri at Loyola, the family needs a van before they can hope to bring her home, says clinical nurse Gail Kellberg.

"Not having a van would mean that they could not get Karri to the hospital for treatments," says Kellberg.

"It's much more than just needing the van for transportation. Without a personal van, they would have to call an ambulance or pay for a medical van to transport her."

In the accident, Karri was pinned in the passenger seat of her father's car, her neck was broken and she was possibly already dead when the paramedics arrived and revived her.

Karri went into cardiac arrest three times while in the intensive care unit at Loyola. She has survived to a life of tubes, synthetic air and only the mobility offered by others as they move her wheel chair.

According to nurses, however, Karri is a bright, normal, thoughtful child mentally. She calls her bedside ventilator "Big Bear" and the smaller ventilator on her wheelchair "Little Bear."

The Johnsons cannot find a nursing service to smooth the way for Karri to come home — nursing services don't often accept children at all, much less quadriplegic children.

Karri Johnson is a 4-year-old quadriplegic who, during a terrible automobile accident in November of 1980, was pinned in her father's car. She suffered a broken neck and was presumed dead before paramedics were able to revive her. The money will help the Bolingbrook family meet the mounting expenses and help buy a van to take Karri on visits outside of the hospital.

Young quadriplegic at home now

MET p 11 MAY 20 1982

A 5-year-old Bolingbrook girl is home with her family after undergoing extensive treatments at Loyola University Medical Center for the past 17 months.

Karri Johnson, 111 Queenswood Road, was seriously injured in an auto accident at Willow Springs and Joliet roads in Countryside nearly a year and a half ago. The accident left her a quadriplegic, and she is confined to an electric wheelchair controlled by her breath. Her parents David and Delena Johnson and her grandparents Fred and Novella Johnson all went through training programs at the hospital to learn to care for Karri on her return home.

A trust fund was established at Heritage Bank of Bolingbrook to raise funds to help the family bring Karri home. She needed the special chair as well as a specially equipped van so that she could be transported to and from medical appointments.

MET p 6 NOV 17 1981

Each Christmas, the generous hearts of the employees at the Bolingbrook Denny's Restaurant have taken on a project to raise money for a charity or worthy group.

Next Monday, more than a dozen waitresses, cooks — even the district and regional managers — are expected to hike through the cold for 10 miles from the Willowbrook Denny's to Bolingbrook's. The walk-a-thon is to raise money for Karri Johnson — exactly three years after the auto accident that might well have claimed her life.

Karri is alive, and in many ways quite well today, despite the fact that the accident left her a quadriplegic.

She is alive thanks to — well, a miracle, doctors and family agree — but also the enormously expensive equipment that keeps her breathing and functioning. Her specially-designed $10,000 wheelchair includes a respirator. At night, she sleeps in a special medical water bed.

Though Karri's family works hard to support themselves and try to keep up with the $800 of monthly medical bills, red tape prevents them from getting some traditional kinds of financial help.

That's where Denny's comes in. Looking for a holiday project, employees called the CSC and were told Karri's story. They wanted to help.

The walk-a-thon is one of several fund-raising efforts by Denny's workers to benefit Karri. So far, dozens and dozens of people have agreed to be sponsors for the walk-a-thon. One waitress has convinced 78 people to contribute; another has found nearly 70 sponsors.

This week, employees also held a bake sale offering extra homemade goodies to Denny's customers at the restaurant.

Employees are each contributing $5 to $10 gifts to stuff a giant stocking that they will raffle off for the Karri Johnson Fund. Tickets sell for $1.

And the Johnson family — Karri, Mom Delana, and Dad, David, plus sister and brother, Mary and David and grandmother Novella — will all be invited for Christmas dinner courtesy of Denny's.

Anyone who wishes to add to the fund, can drop donations off at Denny's on North Frontage Road or mail it to Midwest Savings & Loan where a special account has been established for Karri.

MET p 9 MAR 26 1987

Ten-year-old Karri L. Johnson died this week, March 19, at the Bolingbrook Medical Center.

She was a well-known young person in the village after having miraculously survived a 1980 crippling automobile accident.

Doctors had predicted at that time that she might not live through the coma that resulted from the accident.

She did come out of the coma; but was left a quadriplegic.

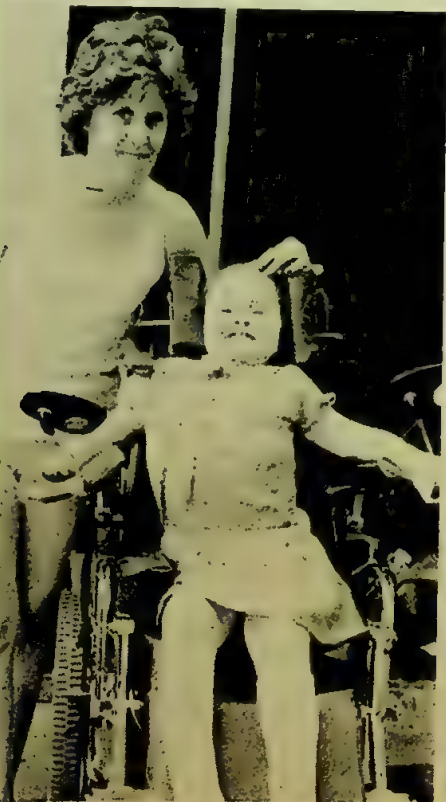

Karri was often seen in her specially built, life-supporting wheelchair as her family tried to make life as normal for her as possible.

She is survived by her father David and mother, Delana; by brother William, sister, Mary; by grandparents Fred and Novella Johnson, Bruce Rich and Carolyn Cunningham; by great-grandparents Elmer and Altie Williams, Ethel Rich and Bessie Johnson; and by many uncles, aunts and cousins.

Services were Saturday, March 21 from Brook-Ridge Funeral Home with Mass at St. Dominic Church and interment at Clarendon Hills Cemetery in Westmont.

Theresa Johnson found dead

MEET p 3 April 3 1975

Funeral services and burial for Theresa Jean Johnson, 27, of 111 Queenswood Rd., will be held today in Union, Tenn., following her death last week in a drainage culvert at 103rd Street and Orchard Road, just east of Bolingbrook.

Miss Johnson, who disappeared mysteriously from her mother's and stepfather's house Feb. 15, was found by a state of Illinois worker last Wednesday as he was examining culverts. It was estimated that she had died four to five days before then. DuPage County Sheriff's Police took two days to identify the body with the help of Bolingbrook Police using dental charts. Miss Johnson had had extensive, and recent dental work, police said.

There were no marks of violence on the body, according to sheriff's police, and the autopsy report was inconclusive. Sheriff's police were waiting a toxology report to determine whether any drugs or poisons had been ingested. It was theorized that Miss Johnson had crawled inside the culvert for warmth during a recent cold day, and had died of exposure.

She is survived by her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. George Hecker, and several brothers and sisters.

BEACON p 2 April 2, 1975

Police have identified the body of a young girl found in a drainage ditch culvert last Wednesday as that of Teresa Johnson, 17, of 111 Queenswood Rd. in Bolingbrook. The identification was made through dental charts.

Miss Johnson, who was reported missing to Bolingbrook Police on February 15, was found last Wednesday in a drainage ditch culvert on Old Murphy Rd. three blocks south of 103rd St. in DuPage County. She was fully clothed, and the autopsy gave no clues as to the cause of death, the body being badly deteriorated.

Her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. George Hecker, also live at the Bolingbrook address. She was a sophomore at Bolingbrook High School.

Bolingbrook Police cooperated in the identification of the young woman.

Bolingbrook girl's death drug overdose

Drug overdose was ruled to be the cause of the death of a 17-year-old Bolingbrook girl found in a drainage ditch near here on March 19. According to DuPage County Coroner Robert Matthews, Teresa Johnson of 111 Queenswood Rd. died of an overdose of darvon, a commonly used pain-killing drug.

Miss Johnson's decomposed body was found three blocks south of 103rd St. in DuPage County a month after she had been reported missing. There were no marks of violence found on the body, and she was fully clothed.

A sophomore at Bolingbrook High School, Miss Johnson had lived with her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. George Hecker, at the Bolingbrook address.

Man says he murdered girl

BEACON MAY 21 1980 P15

Bolingbrook—A Downers Grove man walked into the Bolingbrook Police station Monday and confessed to a murder which occurred five years ago.

Robbin Scott Owen, 24, of 9024 Lemont Road, told police he murdered Teresa Jeanne Johnson in March of 1975. Owen is in the custody of the DuPage County Sheriff's Police, charged with homicide. He is being held without bond.

Johnson, who was 16 at the time of the murder, was reported missing by her parents on Feb. 25, 1975. Her body was discovered on March 26 in a ditch off Old Davey and Orchard Roads by a State of Ill. worker who was checking culverts, according to a DuPage County Sheriff's police spokesman. The body was fully clothed, with no signs of sexual assault. The cause of death was later determined by a coroner to be from strangulation, police said. Trial date has not been set.

Boyfriend confesses to murder five years after Johnson death

MeT MAY 22 1980 P3

Shortly after midnight on Monday, a young man approached the front window of the Bolingbrook police offices in village hall and asked to speak to an officer. Sgt. Carl Clausen and officer James Bonk conferred with the man for several hours and by dawn, the man had been officially arrested and charged with a five-year-old murder.

Robbin Owen, 23, a former Bolingbrook resident currently living in Downers Grove, approached local authorities to confess his involvement in the 1975 murder of Bolingbrook teen Theresa Jean Johnson.

Johnson, who was 16, was reported missing from her home at 115 White Oak Drive in February of 1975. She had purchased a soda at 7-Eleven, then disappeared, said her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Hecker. Five weeks later, her body was found by a road work crew in a water-filled drainage ditch east of Bolingbrook near Murphy Road and south of 103rd Street in DuPage County.

It was estimated at the time that the teen had died four or five days prior to the discovery of her body. It took two days for investigators to identify the body with the help of dental records.

There were no marks of violence. An autopsy report failed to show the cause of death. Owen's confession apparently invalidates the theory of five years ago that the teenaged girl had crawled into the culvert for warmth and subsequently died of exposure.

The incident was investigated as murder, but was unsolved by DuPage County Sheriffs. Owen was never a suspect in the case, officials say.

Following the interview with Owen at Bolingbrook police facilities Monday night, the DuPage County Sheriff's office was notified and two DuPage investigators were dispatched to obtain a statement from him.

Owen was turned over to DuPage County officials and is in custody without bond. The preliminary hearing in the case is set for next week.

DuPage County assistant state's attorney Brian Smith assigned to the murder case declined to comment on the details, but did say Owen and Johnson knew each other and appeared to have had a girlfriend-boyfriend relationship at the time of the murder.

Albert Kaufman; founded Woodridge

BY BRENDA WARNER ROTZOLL
Staff Reporter

The village of Woodridge will fly its flags at half-staff through Monday to honor the memory of its founder, Albert Kaufman, who built thousands of starter homes in the western and southern suburbs.

"He built our first homes, he continued to have his corporate office in Woodridge to this day. He started off wanting to build a community, and he did it in the true sense of community," Mayor Bill Murphy said.

Mr. Kaufman gave the village its first village hall, school and Roman Catholic church, along with parks.

Mr. Kaufman died Thursday at a nursing home in Scottsdale, Ariz. He was 90.

He was born in Chicago on Aug. 23, 1913, and grew up on the South Side, one of five children of Sophia and William Kaufman. His father had a company called Marquette Plumbing and developed a number of small offices and residential buildings.

Mr. Kaufman's first job was selling water heaters. He worked his way through the University of Chicago estimating construction needs on jobs his father did. He also did a lot of estimating for the City of Chicago and often talked proudly of working as an estimator for the building of the offshore cribs for the city's water intake system.

A fine violinist, he studied on the East Coast and at the University of Chicago, played in the symphony and helped start a string quartet.

He met his wife, Bonnie, who was a nurse working at Michael Reese Hospital, on a blind date. It led to a marriage that lasted until her death 50 years later. They lived in Chicago for a few years, then moved to Elmhurst after World War II.

There he became active in community affairs. He built the Elmhurst Youth Center and gave it to the town. He served on the board of governors of Elmhurst Memorial Hospital and was a past president of the Elmhurst Kiwanis Club.

He built more than 5,500 homes and 1.5 million square feet of strip mall space. At one time he was building in six suburbs at the same time, from Park Ridge to Elmhurst. In Chicago, he built the high-rise apartment building at 40 E. Cedar. He founded two sewer and water companies.

He built the first houses in Woodridge, which incorporated in 1959, and in all built thousands of houses there. His first model, the Thunderbird, sold for $17,000 — or $14,200 if you wanted to install the fixtures, insulation and dry-wall yourself, his son William said.

Mr. Kaufman specialized in

Albert Kaufman
Built more than 5,500 houses starter homes, most of them assembled from prefabricated wall panels that were set in place by cranes.

"My first home in Woodridge when my wife and I moved there in October 1968 was an Al Kaufman home that cost $24,500 completely finished. The homes he built were quality. He's known as a quality developer and a person of integrity," the Woodridge mayor said.

Murphy knew Mr. Kaufman because Murphy's father had been the Kaufman family dentist in Elmhurst.

Mr. Kaufman loved to fish and later took up golf. He was a past president of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago; a co-founder of the Residential Construction Employers Council; a trustee of the Chicago District Council of Carpenters pension and welfare fund; a member of the DuPage County and North Shore real estate boards, and a member of the Builder Hall of Fame. He was active in the National Association of Home Builders and was appointed by President Richard Nixon in 1972 to the national Price Control Board for the construction industry.

A past president of Oak Park Temple B'nai Zion Abraham, he also was a co-founder of the Fair West B'nai B'rith chapter.

He is survived by two other sons, Richard and James; a daughter, Sharon Garson; two brothers, Milton and Gene; a sister, Violet Perlmutter; nine grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Services will be private.

Barbara Kovach, community leader, co-publisher dies at 83

Kovach led efforts to establish Park District, was co-publisher of Beacon newspaper in '60s, '70s

Barbara A. Kovach, who led efforts to establish the Bolingbrook Park District and was co-publisher of the area's Beacon newspaper in the 1960s and '70s, died recently at her home in Sun City, Ariz.

Kovach, 83, passed away Dec. 29, 2013, after a brief illness due to pancreatic cancer.

A native of Massachusetts, Mrs. Kovach graduated from Melrose (Mass.) High School and the Massachusetts School of Physiotherapy. She married Joseph J. Kovach in 1952 and moved to Bolingbrook in the early 1960s with her husband and their four daughters.

The Kovaches soon acquired the Beacon and turned it from a community newsletter into a weekly newspaper that expanded to serve Bolingbrook, Romeoville, Lemont and Lockport. In their early days as co-publishers, Mrs. Kovach sold the advertisements while her husband reported and edited the local news. The suburban area's population grew over the next two decades, and so did the Beacon's readership, staff and influence in the community.

Mrs. Kovach loved children and was active in sports, daughter Kim Kovach said, so when the neighborhood children complained of being bored, Mrs. Kovach and other parents began teaching them bridge and taking them bowling. From those inklings of a park district, Kim Kovach said, "Mom just took the bull by the horns." Mrs. Kovach's efforts led to a successful referendum that created the Bolingbrook Park District in 1970. She served on its board from 1970 to 1977, including a term as board president in 1972-73.

"Both my parents wanted a community to raise children in," Kim Kovach said. "The Beacon was a business, but it also facilitated making sure the community they were raising their kids in was a good community."

The Kovaches sold the Beacon to a longtime employee in the early 1980s. The Sun Newspaper Group of Naperville acquired it next, eventually renaming it the Bolingbrook Sun. It ceased publication in 2010.

Meanwhile, the Kovaches bought an RV and traveled the United States before exploring Mexico and settling in an American retirement community near Lake Chapala, Mexico. The couple divorced in 1989, and in 1991 Mrs.

Kovach moved to Maine to care for her mother and stepfather.

Mrs. Kovach moved to Arizona in 1994 to be near her daughters and pursue her hobbies of cooking, entertaining, gardening and music. A longtime Unitarian, she also served as board president of the West Valley Unitarian Universalist Church in Glendale, Ariz.

She is survived by daughters Karen Kovach of Phoenix, Ariz., Kandi Kovach of Scottsdale, Ariz., Kim Kovach and son-in-law Jim Owens of Peoria, Ariz.; one stepson; three nieces; three granddaughters; and one great-granddaughter. Besides one daughter, she was preceded in death by her mother, stepfather and former husband.

Memorial services will be held Feb. 1 at the Unitarian church in Glendale, Ariz. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to CureSearch for Children's Cancer, Bethesda, Md.

Former publisher instrumental in Bolingbrook Park District

Barbara A. Kovach, a co-publisher of the former Beacon newspapers who was instrumental in the development of the Bolingbrook Park District, died Dec. 29, 2013, at her home in Sun City, Ariz.

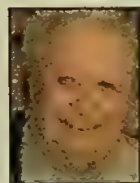

Barbara, and the late Joseph Kovach, acquired the Beacon, which was a newsletter at the time, in the early 1960s when they moved to Bolingbrook from Massachusetts.

"They turned it into their livelihood," daughter Kim Kovach told The Herald-News. "When they started it, it was done in our house."

The Kovaches eventually moved the business office into Romeoville. The Beacon had editions in Bolingbrook, Romeoville, Lockport and Lemont at one point, Kovach said. They sold the business in the early 1980s.

The couple did not have previous newspaper experience and had met in school while studying physical therapy in Massachusetts, Kovach said.

"They had a variety of interest and jobs, but the newspapers became their career," Kovach said. "Dad loved the writing, and mom loved the selling."

Barbara A. Kovach

Barbara Kovach handled the sales end of the business, while Joseph ran the editorial part of the newspaper, her daughter said.

Kovach also was very active in the community. She led the referendum effort to create the Bolingbrook Park District in 1970, according to the news release. She served on the park board from 1970 to 1977 and was board president from 1972 to 1973.

"Both my parents wanted a community to raise children in," Kovach said. "The Beacon was their business, but it also facilitated making sure the community they were raising their kids in was a good community."

The couple traveled after selling the newspaper, which became part of the Sun Newspaper Group in Romeoville before ceasing publication in 2010.

Barbara and Joseph Kovach divorced in 1989. Barbara eventually moved to Arizona in 1994 and remained active in a variety of interests while also serving as board president for the West Valley Unitarian Universalist Church in Glendale, Ariz.

She is survived by daughters, Karen Kovach, Kandi Kovach and Kim, and numerous relations. A daughter, Katti, died in 1968 from leukemia.

Mrs Barbara Kovach, co-owner and advertising manager of the Beacon, narrowly escaped serious injury when a wheel came off her car. The incident happened in Westbury. She had just driven by several children playing in the street when the wheel came off.

A mechanic, called to replace the wheel, said the wheel lugs had deliberately been loosened to cause the accident. This is the second time a car owned by the editors of the Beacon have been tampered with. Last year a pin was removed from the steering mechanism of another car.

THANK YOU

BEACON Sept 5 1948 p6

Newspapers, including ours, often will give more prominent space to items depicting man's unkindness to his fellow man, and take little note of the many examples of kindness and consideration shown by the ordinary man on the street. A very touching and heartwarming gesture was shown us this past week by the Juliettes All-Girl Drill Team and Color Guard. They dedicated the trophy they won at the Bolingbrook Anniversary Parade to the memory of our dear daughter, Kitt.

Kitt, the eldest of our four daughters, would have been sixteen years old next month. She died last May, a victim of Leukemia. Literally hundreds of people showed us great kindness and sympathy in many ways. It is now, and will be forever, impossible to thank them enough or let them know in adequate words how much these kindnesses have meant to us.

Groups set fundraisers for Bolingbrook families

Pinecrest Plaza aids Kozars

In memory of Laurie Kozar, the merchants of the Pinecrest Shopping Center are sponsoring a Shop and Share Day in behalf of the Kozar family this Saturday, Feb. 24.

A victim of Leukemia, Laurie died last week at the age of 13. Her parents are owners of Kozar Pharmacy which often had to be closed during Laurie's illness.

Family friend Pat Bingham says that a portion of every dollar spent at the Pinecrest Shopping Center on the 24th will go to the Laurie Kozar Leukemia Fund. "We cannot bring back Laurie but we can help ease the Kozar's great financial burden," Bingham says. □

The following proclamation was approved at last Tuesday night's Village Board meeting:

Proclamation Jeff Mollohan and Laurie Kozar Day

When tragedy strikes family or friends, it is always a shocking thing. When it strikes a child, it is heartrending.

Within the last year, tragedy has struck two children in Bolingbrook families. Jeff Mollohan succumbed to Cancer, and Laurie Kozar to Leukemia.

Our hearts went out to the Mollohan and Kozar families, and expressions of sympathy were heartfelt.

And while it may not be pleasant to think about it, both families accrued extensive medical bills. The Bolingbrook Chamber of Commerce and the Bolingbrook Jaycees have joined together in an effort to help ease some of the financial burden.

To that end, they will hold a "canister day" on Saturday, February 24, in an attempt to raise funds to assist these families.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Robert L. Bailey, President of the Board of Trustees of the Village of Bolingbrook, Will and DuPage Counties, Illinois, do hereby proclaim February 24, 1979, as "JEFF MOLLOHAN AND LAURIE KOZAR DAY," and encourage all civic and fraternal groups, other community organizations, the news media, and all residents of Bolingbrook to actively support this fund-raising effort and give generously.

Mollohan Shop and Share continues Feb. 21

Shop and Share for the Jeff Mollohan Fund continues Wednesday, Feb. 21 at the Jewel Food Store.

Jewel will contribute 5% of all sales credited to the fund which goes to aid Jerry and Jan Mollohan in meeting hospital bills up to $100,000 during the illness of their son.

Shop and Share tickets are available from local merchants.

Organizations wishing to aid in the fund-raising efforts should contact committee members Donna Kane (759-1263) or Bob Pagust (739-0687). □

Fund established for Kozars at Central Federal

BEACON Feb. 4 1979 p. 24

A fund for the benefit of the family of Laurie Kozar has been established at the Central Federal Savings and Loan in Bolingbrook.

Laurie, 13, died this past weekend at Loyola Hospital in Chicago. Laurie was the daughter of Nicholas and Delores Kozar, owners of Kozar pharmacy in Bolingbrook. She was a student at Hubert Humphrey Middle School and had been receiving treatment for leukemia over the past year.

According to Pat Bingham, a friend of the family, the Kozars had closed the pharmacy so that Nicholas could spend more time with the family.

She said that the fund for the family was established to use as the family sees fit.

Those wishing to contribute should contact Connie Murphy at Central Federal Savings and Loan, 739-3427.

Laurie Kozar critical

Met p 5 Feb 8 1979
Laurie Kozar, 13 year old Humphrey Middle School student, slipped into a coma this week as her long fight with leukemia neared its conclusion at the Loyola Medical Center. Laurie is the daughter of Doloris and Nicholas B. Kozar, residents of Kildeer Drive and proprietors of Kozar Pharmacy on Pinecrest Road.

Friends have established a fund for the family at Central Federal Savings in Bolingbrook. Connie Murphy of that institution is supervising the fund.

Battle with leukemia ends for Laurie Kozar

Laurie Kozar, thirteen-year-old daughter of Nicholas and Delores Kozar, died last weekend at Loyola Medical Center, following a weeklong coma that ended her battle with leukemia.

Friends have established a fund to benefit the Kozar family at the Heritage Bank in Bolingbrook. Two years ago the Kozars opened their drug store on Pinecrest. During Laurie's last stay in the hospital, the store was closed so her parents could be by her side.

Students at Hubert Humphrey Middle School, where Laurie had been a student, held a "Dance of Love" Tuesday night with proceeds going to the Kozars. The newly-former Kiwanis Club, of which Nicholas Kozar was vice-president, is also donating funds.

Day set aside for Jeff and Laurie

Met p 13 Feb 22 1979
The community will observe and participate in a special day Saturday, Feb. 24, proclaimed by Mayor Bob Bailey as "Laurie's and Jeff's Day." The people of the village are asked to contribute generously this day to the Jeff Molloyhan and Laurie Kozar Memorial Funds. Members of the Bolingbrook Jaycees, the Bolingbrook Chamber of Commerce, and memorial fund volunteers will be visible throughout the village asking for donations to the "Laurie and Jeff" canisters, they say.

Jeff Molloyhan and Laurie Kozar, Bolingbrook children, were both victims of cancer, and memorial funds for each of their families have been established.

The Bolingbrook Jaycees and Chamber of Commerce have cooperated in organizing and coordinating the fund-raising activities for "Laurie's and Jeff's day" in hopes of raising significant sums for each fund.

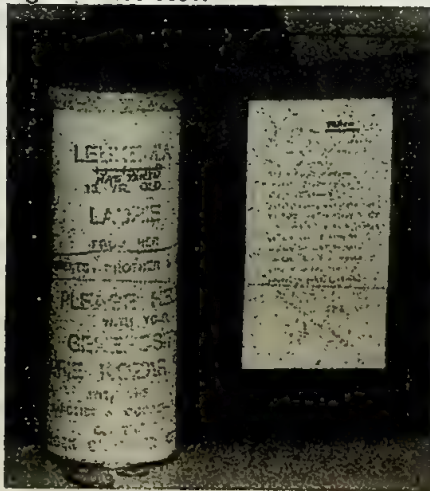

Jeff, son of Jerry and Jan Molloyhan, died last August at age 2½ after three major operations to remove a brain tumor. Several fund-raising projects have already been held for the Molloyhan Memorial Fund, the most recent a three-day Shop and Share campaign at Jewel this past week.

Laurie Kozar, thirteen-year-old daughter of Nicholas and Delores Kozar, died Feb. 11 of leukemia. Laurie was a student at Hubert H. Humphrey Middle School; students there recently held a fund-raising dance in her memory. Kozar Memorial Fund canisters located at local stores last week were reportedly brimming with donations.

Merchants of the Pinecrest Plaza are also sponsoring a Shop and Share Day on Saturday for the Kozar Fund. A portion of every dollar spent at stores in the Pinecrest Plaza will be donated to the fund.

The Molloyhan and Kozar Memorial Funds have been established to help the families with medical bills. The Molloyhan Fund was established as an ongoing fund to help other Bolingbrook families in similar situations in the future.

For more information about "Laurie's and Jeff's Day" or the memorial funds, call Jerry LoPiccolo at 739-7191 or Bob Fagust at 739-0687.

HELPING HAND-Collections for the memorial funds for two young cancer victims were so bountiful that by noon of the first day the can at Jewel was overflowing.

Popular BHS athletic director loses 3-year battle with cancer

Jerry Kinnikin p 5 Sept 22 1994

Jerry Kinnikin, long-time coach, teacher and athletic director at Bolingbrook High School, finally lost his battle against cancer, on Monday, Sept. 19, while in St. Joseph Medical Center in Joliet. He was 48. The funeral will be Thursday, Sept. 22, at 11 a.m., also in Joliet.

Diagnosed with cancer three years ago, doctors had not predicted Kinnikin would live a year, much less three years. He was a real fighter, friends say.

Kinnikin spent his entire career working in the Valley View School District. He started at Lockport West High School, before it became Romeoville High School, says one of his long-time friends and co-workers, Larry Bernard, Athletic Director at BHS.

Kinnikin coached football and baseball at RHS. He took some time off from his teaching and coaching duties to serve in the VietNam War, and then returned home, and to Valley View, where he helped create many of the athletic traditions at the new school, Bolingbrook High School.

Kinnikin became one of the "founding fathers" of BHS, which opened its doors 20 years ago, in 1974.

After the 1977 car accident that killed football coach Ron Wrather and left Bernard wheelchair-bound, Kinnikin became co-athletic director with Bernard. He'd also taught driver's education and physical education, and set up the weight training program at BHS.

Despite his illness, "Jerry had the knack of making people feel comfortable when they were around him," recalls Bernard. "Jerry was a real 'people person.'"

"Jerry was elated when the Raider football team made it downstate last season. He was not well enough to attend the championship game, but he was there in spirit," says Bernard.

Kinnikin as a player was a quarterback at Illinois State University. "We always told him he was the perfect quarterback with a tackle's body," says Bernard.

In recent years, Kinnikin enjoyed his daughter Beth's athletic career. She played volleyball and softball at Plainfield High School, and is now, as a junior at College of St. Francis, on the school's softball team.

Besides his daughter Beth, he is also survived by his wife Linda (nee Stauter); his mother, Edna of Staunton; one brother, Bryan (Sandra) of Princeville; one sister, Sharon (Larry) Kuba of Staunton; and several nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his father, Grover.

Visitation was Wednesday evening, Sept. 21, with the funeral at Fred C. Dames West Chapel, 3200 W. Black Road, Joliet, at 11 a.m. on Thursday, Sept. 22. Interment was to be at Woodlawn Memorial Park in Joliet.

In lieu of flowers, memorials sent in Jerry Kinnikin's name to the Athletic Department, Bolingbrook High School, would be appreciated by his family.

Road chief Kozlik dies

By Theresa Ruble

The Metropolitan

Edward V. Kozlik, elected highway commissioner for DuPage Township, died Monday, July 31, at his Bolingbrook home. He was 51.

Kozlik, a Bolingbrook resident since 1971, was well-known and well-loved throughout the village and the township.

"Everybody knew him and liked him," said Mayor Roger Claar. "He was the most-liked person in the village of Bolingbrook."

"Eddie was a gracious man. He is one of the last two gentlemen I know. He had class. He would always ask, 'Can I open the door for you? Can I help you?' He was a gracious, kind, gentle man," said Ann Dralle, DuPage Township trustee.

In addition to his work as highway commissioner, Kozlik was foreman of DuPage Township highways, buildings and grounds.

He served with the Vietnam assistance forces in the U.S. Navy, as a Bolingbrook village employee and as DuPage Township Republican Party committee man-at-large.

He was a former Bolingbrook police and fire commissioner, field engineer for National Vending and member of the Bolingbrook Grey Core.

He was a member of the Party. Eddie and Marianne Kozlik were with the opposing party, the Work Slate party headed by Bob Bailey.

"With Eddie, it didn't matter what political party you were with, he would always speak to you, even if no one else would," said Danhof, who was a Bolingbrook trustee before being elected as township supervisor in 1992.

Kozlik was elected as township highway supervisor about six years ago.

"He ran with John Annerino after former township supervisor Lloyd Eipers passed away. His wife, Joan Eipers, filled in for the rest of his term, and then Kozlik took over in 1989," said Danhof.

Danhof said that it would be hard to replace Kozlik.

"He was getting his life together again. He had a good job working for the village Public Works Department. He worked very hard," said Danhof.

"It is a big loss," agreed Bolingbrook Village Clerk Carol Penning. "Eddie was really loved in Bolingbrook by all."

She described Kozlik as a tireless worker and remembered his great sense of humor.

"Personally, he was like a brother," said Penning, who is close friends with Kozlik's wife, Marianne, who serves on the Will County Board and works as a CSC fund-raiser.

"It leaves a real void," she said.

Kozlik is survived by his wife, Marianne, nee Bogolin; his children, Laura and Eric; his mother, Sophie; his brother, Frank; and aunts, uncles, cousins and many friends. He was preceded in death by his father, Edward.

Visitation is from 2-9 p.m. today at Bolingbrook Funeral Chapel, 530 W. Boughton Road. Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m., Friday, Aug. 4, at Bolingbrook Funeral Chapel. Interment will be at Hillcrest Cemetery, Bolingbrook. Arrangements are being handled by Zefran Funeral Home, Chicago.

three-time champion Bolingbrook Mud Volleyball Team and a volunteer for the American Cancer Society March of Dimes, Salvation Army and the Community Service Council.

Dralle recalled that the first time she met Kozlik was at a Republican Party spaghetti dinner in 1986 or 1987.

"He had on an apron and was cooking the spaghetti," recalled Dralle.

Kozlik was known as the cook at the political fundraisers. He would bring a special salsa sauce and chips to the parties.

But what made Kozlik stand out was that he never held a grudge or was bitter and combative, which was unusual on the local political scene.

"People always liked Eddie. He had the ability to work with and deal with people. He was not a confrontational person, not a wave maker. He smiled. He was accepting of what the situation dealt him," said Dralle.

Dralle commented on the impact of Kozlik's death on his family.

"Life is not fair. His wife, his two children will be lost without him. He gave 150 percent to his family," said Dralle. She recalled that Kozlik had open-heart surgery about five or six years ago, but recently appeared to be in good health.

"I will miss him," said Dralle.

DuPage Township Supervisor Peggy Danhof echoed the sentiment.

"We are going to miss him a great deal. He worked very hard," said Danhof.

"I've known Eddie since 1976. I was on the opposite side of local politics at the time. I was appointed to the Bolingbrook Zoning Board of Appeals by Mayor Nora Wipfler, who was with the Pride Party. Eddie and Marianne Kozlik were with the opposing party, the Work Slate party headed by Bob Bailey.

"With Eddie, it didn't matter what political party you were with, he would always speak to you, even if no one else would," said Danhof, who was a Bolingbrook trustee before being elected as township supervisor in 1992.

All of us are diminished by the loss of a friend.

There is a void in Bolingbrook as of this week: an enormous loss to one family and an emptiness in the entire community that was once so amply filled by one simple, humble guy: Eddie Kozlik. (And it was "Eddie" that people knew him by and that he had tattooed on his arm, a souvenir from an early outing with the guys).

Eddie already was the kinder and gentler person that his President, George Bush, asked Americans to become. Eddie could have been the model for Bush's "point of light" volunteerism.

There was time for instance, that he and Marianne were on I-55 when a huge produce truck ahead of them flipped over. Produce bounced across lanes and into swerving traffic as the truck burst into flames.

Eddie, ignoring the fire, jumped out of his car to run over to the burning truck and clambered up to the overturned cab to get to the unconscious driver. As stunned motorists watched from a distance, Eddie had to yank and pull on the door to pry it open and pull the driver out and drop him to another man below.

"You could have been killed! Everyone said that truck was about to blow," Marianne scolded him back in their car. With a typical shrug, Eddie answered: "But I wasn't. And if I hadn't helped the guy, he woulda' been killed".

Then there was the time near Dwight when Eddie drove miles out of his way after finding a woman's purse in a rest stop. He wanted to give the purse to a law enforcement agency to ensure that it would be returned to its owner. The woman, who later called and wrote about Eddie, was amazed at the extent to which he'd gone -- and that every dollar of the considerable cash in her purse was still there.

But it's not just the big things, as much as it is the little things that add up to what was so special about Eddie. It's not the prizes and titles that Eddie won but what Eddie was always busy doing. And what Eddie did was...Eddie "did" for people.

"Can I get you something?" Who hasn't heard that from Eddie, as he popped in and out of a kitchen to wait on people.

Uncomplaining. No matter how many hours he spent broiling in the sun or freezing in the rain, whether shaking a fundraising can at Route 53 and Boughton Road or stirring a benefit pot of spaghetti, seldom was heard a discouraging word from Eddie Kozlik. With a shrug, he just went about doing what he did.

Well, Eddie was not a big talker, anyway. He was usually content to let others have the floor. But when Eddie did choose to speak, he usually had a humorous zinger or insightful observation to throw in, especially when hoisting a few brews with the boys. A sentimental streak emerged with "It's a Wonderful Life", a Kozlik family Christmas tradition. Jimmy Stewart would fit the title role in the "Eddie Kozlik Story", if one were made.

THINGS TO REMEMBER ABOUT EDDIE

His salsa, which he fixed for everyone else for every occasion, but never ate himself. The secret to his salsa, he said: "Never rub your eyes while chopping the jalapenos."

"Two Ed's are better than none."

Eddie Kozlik to Ed Kusta

He was "Dr. Daddy" whenever the kids scraped a knee or banged an elbow.

"My favorite moments were our private talks when Eddie and I were fishing together."

Shirley Kusta

He was the least competitive guy except when playing the game "Acquire" - That's when his aggressiveness came out. He played viciously and for keeps.

Claars and Kustas

"Eddie was always fixing things, he could fix anything!"

Nikki Beal

He talked a tough Rush Limbaugh political philosophy, but he lived a Jimmy Stewart life.

"I always remember how Daddy would lift me up so I could put the star on the top of the Christmas tree"

Laura Kozlik

He would frown at Marianne's latest proposals, but shrug and go along with whatever.

Eddie would advocate tough law enforcement but took Joliet gang members fishing and invited them for Christmas.

He loved swimming, but hated that he would always sink and Marianne would always float.

"Every time I would be packing to go away to school, Dad would be pacing the house, going back and forth in front of my room with a tear in his eye, shaking his head. "Dad, I'll be back home in a few weeks," I'd say. He did this every time, even at Christmas breaks.

Eric Kozlik

Eddie always stuck it out to the end of the Bear's game at Soldier Field, no matter how cold. Even when the fog rolled in off the lake so thick you couldn't see the field!

Bill & Becky Gray

"All Bolingbrook must be in mourning."

Mayor, Sandra Gulden of Romeoville, upon hearing of Eddie Kozlik's death

"I liked Eddie because he always talked to us kids and treated us the same as adults"

Lindsey Claar

"He's Polish, but he's good boy."

Marianne's Slovenian Grandma Zorko

Eddie being our first guest, saved our wedding party by taking over the cooking of the shrimp - You see...We were doing it wrong.

Mike Drey

Whenever I would mention I was hungry, dad would always go get me a jello or a pudding, even if he had to go back to the store to get it.

Laura Kozlik

his beaming proud smile when watching Laura or Eric do something

The tear that trickled down his cheek, despite his denial, during a sentimental story

OR

How he held back his laughter until I laughed, because he said I was so funny when I laughed.

Marianne

Eddie's wit came out when I gave him a hard time in the grocery store for the brand of Toli Paper he had loaded his cart with. "You should buy recycled, Eddie" and his response was "Well someone has to use it first."

The Blue Recycling Fairy

I loved knocking on doors with Eddie during elections. We hit every door not every other one.

Peggy Danhof

Eddie was fun loving, good natured, a good cook, a dear friend, and my family and I are going to miss him alot.

EDDIE

He was a gentle man. There seemed to be no hard edges on Eddie. I truly don't recall ever seeing him angry. On the other hand the memories I have of him enjoying life could fill a book.

Eddie the dancer - the one you could always count on to still be dancing when lesser men had collapsed in their chairs.

Eddie the chef - always in the kitchen at any charitable event making chili or spaghetti in huge pots.

Eddie the bartender - serving his friends with a smile at fundraisers, beer tents, or in his home.

Eddie the mud volley ball player - winning the championship covered with mud and glory.

Eddie the dress-up king - whether dressing for a 50's dance or a halloween party, his costume was top notch and top secret.

Eddie the comedian - playing Cheech or Chong or one of the Blues Brothers or just mooning the crowd, he was irrepressible.

Eddie the friend - kind and loyal and always there.

Eddie the family man - Marianne, Laura, and Eric came first. His loving devotion was a constant we all admired.

We used to have Eddie/Betty birthday parties. I wish we could have another one or two or fifteen or twenty. If I close my eyes I can see him at those parties and all the pictures of him seem to be smiling. I like remembering him that way but it seems too soon for that smile to be gone. The world will be a little colder without its warmth.

We'll miss you Eddie. We'll miss the kind and funny man who brought light and laughter to our lives. You won't be forgotten. We'll remember you at a dance, in a swimming pool, at a party, cooking a dinner, collecting money for charity, or just in a beautiful sunset or the first snowfall. And when the pain of your leaving is gone, we'll smile when we recall the gentle man who was our dear and trusted friend.

TOGETHERNESS

Death is nothing at all -- I have only slipped away into the next room. Whatever we were to each other, that we still are. Call me by my old familiar name, speak to me in the easy way which you always used. Laugh as we always laughed at the little jokes we enjoyed together. Play, smile, think of me, pray for me. Let my name be the household word it always was. Let it be spoken without effort. Life means all that it ever meant. It is the same that it ever was. There is absolutely unbroken continuity. Why should I be out of your mind because I am out of your sight? I am but waiting for you, for an interval, somewhere very near, just around the corner. All is well. Nothing is past; nothing is lost. One brief moment and all will be as it was before -- only better, infinitely happier and forever -- We will be one together in Christ.

Afterglow

I'd like the memory of me to be a happy one.
I'd like to leave an afterglow of smiles when life is done.
I'd like to leave an echo whispering softly down the ways,
Of happy times and laughing times and bright and sunny days.
I'd like the tears of those who grieve, to dry before the sun.
Of happy memories that I leave when my life is done.

Life Is But A Stopping Place

Life is but a stopping place,
A pause in what's to be,
A resting place along the road,
to sweet eternity.
We all have different journeys,
Different paths along the way,
We all were meant to learn some things, but never meant to stay...
Our destination is a place,
Far greater than we know.

Fund set for motherless kids

met 85 Nov 4 1982
A trust fund has been set up to collect donations to help meet the needs of four young children whose mother, a Bolingbrook resident, died in September.

During the past few years, the Burne children, Mike, 5, Katherine, 8, Bob, 9, and Christopher, 11, have had to cope with severe changes in their family situation. The most recent and most tragic was the death of their mother, Margaret Karus.

The children's parents were divorced, and the kids suddenly became part of a single-parent household. Margaret remarried, and the kids once again had a two-parent home, along with the usual adjustments that come with remarriage. They had begun to settle into their new lifestyle when Margaret died.

Now the children once again find themselves in a single-parent home. They are living with their natural father, Bill Burne. Through circumstances beyond Burne's control, he had to uproot the kids and move them to Forest Park.

Burne is a car salesman, and he says business is not good. The family is coping, but he and the children appreciate the concern of Steve Pounders and other Bolingbrook residents who established a trust fund to help meet the personal needs of the children.

The Burne children have to cope with the tragedy that struck their lives this fall, and they have to start all over with a new home, new school and new friends, Pounders says.

"If we can contribute so that they do not have to worry about such things as shoes, books and clothing, it will help a lot," he says.

Those wishing to donate to the trust fund can do so by bringing or mailing contributions to: The Burne Children Trust Fund, #AN-019769, Heritage Bank of Bolingbrook, 443 N. Bolingbrook Drive.

CHILD DROWNED IN UNGUARDED SEWER EXCAVATION

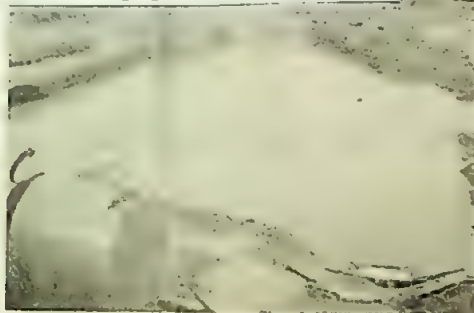

BEACON p1 Sep 2 1965

Tragedy struck a brutal and senseless blow last Sunday when an eight year old Colonial Village girl drowned in an unguarded, water filled excavation near her new home.

Linda Marlene Kinney, daughter of Mr and Mrs Ronald Kinney, 124 Ashbury Road, was playing with her three year old sister, Jennifer, a short way from their newly constructed home in the King's Park area of the Colonial Village subdivision. The bare footed child was evidently playing in the water puddles near the area when she stepped into the deep excavation. The hole, estimated to be 25 feet deep, was filled to the top with water and could easily have been mistaken for another puddle by the child.

The first indication of trouble the parents had was when three year old Jennifer told them that Marlene was playing with water and got her hair wet. The father started an immediate search of the area. There are no phones in the section so it took him some time to locate one and call for help. He then went into the water in a vain attempt to find the child, but could not reach the bottom.

Mute evidence of too little too late. The picture on the left was taken shortly after the drowning. The one to the right the next afternoon. Even the makeshift fence might have been enough to prevent the tragic death.

The State Police were the first to reach the scene, followed shortly by the local branch of the Lemont Fire Department. They started to pump the water from the excavation when the truck and row boat arrived from Lemont. Grappling hooks were lowered and a scuba diver, one of the local firemen, descended the depths. After about 30 or 40 minutes of searching the body was recovered with grappling hooks. Attempts to revive the child, with both artificial respiration and a resuscitator, proved to be futile.

The family moved to the new area less than a week ago from Downers Grove. The parents had been working on the not yet completed home while the children were out playing. Besides three year old Jennifer, they have a son, Floyd, not yet a year old. The children were unaware of the tragedy.

The excavation is among the foundations of several homes. A mud road leads right up to the edge of the pit. It was dug to house tanks and equipment for a sewer lift station. There were no warning signs or fences to indicate the danger spot. It is within easy sight of the Kinney home.

The construction company was asked to take protective measures to keep others away from the area. Nothing was done however till the next day when a makeshift fence was thrown around the hole. The tragedy took place just before noon Sunday. Twenty four hours later the fence went up.

A thorough investigation is being made by the State Police. Their report will be forwarded to the office of the State's Attorney for possible action for criminal negligence. A Coroner's Jury will also be convened later for the same purpose. It has not yet been clarified whether there is cause for criminal prosecution, or whether the construction company, their sub-contractors or the water utility is responsible for leaving the death trap unguarded.

Three people, including one from Bolingbrook, were killed and another Bolingbrook resident was critically injured in a crash early Monday on Chicago's west side, state police said.

A passer-by reported that the car might have been involved in a drag race, though investigators have no other evidence of the cause, said state police Master Sgt. Dan Callahan.

"The car was moving at a high rate of speed and lost control," Callahan said.

The crash occurred about 2:10 a.m. on Interstate 290, said state trooper Michelle Tufenkjian. She said a 2001 Acura was traveling west on the expressway when it ran up an embankment and struck a tree. Light rain was falling at the time, she said.

State police identified Saulius Plusciauski, 30, of Gulfport, Fla.; Tomas Kuprenas, 24, of Bolingbrook; and Valerijus Parutis, 38, address unknown, as those killed in the crash.

Plusciauski and Kuprenas were thrown from the front seat and were pronounced dead at the scene, Tufenkjian said. She said Parutis was found in the back seat and was dead on arrival at West Suburban Hospital in Oak Park.

A 21-year-old woman, Giedre Danasaite of Bolingbrook, also was in the back seat and was listed in critical condition at Loyola University Medical Center in Maywood, said hospital spokeswoman Sandra Martinez.

A final salute

Bolingbrook mourns death of veteran police officer

By Lauren B. Kraft
STAFF WRITER

Bolingbrook police mourned the death of one their own Wednesday at a funeral in Hickory Hills.

Officers from more than 20 departments drove in a caravan from Bolingbrook-McCauley Funeral Chapel to St. Patricia Church, where a service was held for Sgt. Alexander "Al" Kikilas, 45, who lived in Hickory Hills with his wife and four children.

Kikilas, a 22-year veteran of the department, died Aug. 2 when he and fellow Bolingbrook police officer Steve Schaefer were vacationing with their families in Pentwater, Mich. Kikilas and Schaefer were standing atop a sandbar in Lake Michigan at Charles Mear State Park when the two were swept off by an undercurrent.

Schaefer was able to swim to safety. Kikilas' body was found at about 9 a.m. Saturday with the help of the U.S. Coast Guard, the Pentwater fire and police departments and dive teams from the Oceana County Sheriff's Department and Michigan State Police Department.

Uniformed Bolingbrook police were joined by officers from nearby Naperville, Lemont and Woodridge and many other municipalities at the 10 a.m. service Wednesday. The silent caravan of squad cars and some unmarked police vehicles with red and blue lights flashing filled half of the large church parking lot.

The Chicago Police Emerald Society played bagpipes, a tradition at police funerals. The Bolingbrook Police Department Honor Guard served as pallbearers for Kikilas' casket, which was draped in an American flag when it arrived at the church.

During his sermon, the Rev. Mike Lane, a former St. Dominic Parish priest and Bolingbrook Police Department chaplain, reminisced about Kikilas' practical jokes, dedication to police work and devotion to his faith and family.

Lane said Kikilas always showed great courage.

"Especially when he was on duty he was always ready and prepared for anything," Lane said.

Co-worker and best friend officer Jim Daunis flew to the scene of the accident Friday night with Assistant Chief Dave Dodge and officer Jim Coughlin. Later, a group of other officers and their families made the trip to Michigan to be with Kikilas' family.

Daunis, whose family usually accompanied the Kikilas on vacation near Pentwater, said it was tough when the department lost officer Ray Browne, who died of a heart attack four years ago. This time he expects it to be just as difficult.

"It's truly a family," Daunis said. "A lot of guys in the department are going to have a hard time with this ... because Al was never the victim.

"We're going to get through it as a department. We're going to help each other because that's what we do," he said.

In addition to helping found the Rapid Entry Arrest and Containment Team, serving as a detective, firearms training program supervisor and gang suppression unit supervisor, Kikilas was a field training officer for part of his tenure at the department, which meant he knew a majority of the officers on the force.

"He trained an awful lot of guys," Daunis said, adding that officers would say to him, "Al, you taught me everything I know."

Kikilas earned several accolades during his career. He received three department citations, 28 commendations and more than 30 letters of appreciation and praise. He was Bolingbrook Police Officer of the Year in 1990.

"He was pretty much the epitome of a cop," Daunis said. "He lived the job. Everything he did, including the way he raised his kids, was the right way."

Deputy Chief Michael Calcagno, who worked with Kikilas on the street for many years, said Kikilas was dependable at all times.

"No better man you want at your back - I'll tell you that," Calcagno said.

The department is still grieving, Calcagno said.

"It's hard," he said. "I think he had an impact on everyone in the department. He was not only a good cop ... but a good man in general."

Family members of Alexander Kikilas, 45, wait for the beginning of his funeral Wednesday in Hickory Hills. Kikilas, a sergeant with the Bolingbrook Police Department, drowned while on vacation near Pentwater, Mich.
